

DUBLIN, IRELAND > STUDY ABROAD

The Health Science Track of the Dublin Internship Program is ideal for students interested in pre-med, public health, PT/OT and nursing. Based at Dublin City University (DCU), the program combines a professional health-related internship with coursework on Ireland’s contemporary culture, medical ethics, and healthcare system. Courses designed specifically for the program are taught by faculty drawn from Dublin-area universities and professional institutes.

Upon successful completion of the program, students earn 16 Boston University credits.

Dublin Internship Program: Health Science Track

COURSES

Core Phase (Required Courses)

For the first six weeks, students enroll in the following two, 4-credit courses.

- SAR HS 422 Ethics in Health Care
- CAS SO 341 Contemporary Irish Society

Core Phase and Internship Phase (Required Course)

Students also take one, 4-credit course that runs over the duration of the program:
