

RABAT, MOROCCO > STUDY ABROAD

HOST INSTITUTION

The Center for Cross Cultural Learning (CCCL), is a private cultural institution founded and directed by Moroccan academics with many years of experience in cross-cultural education. Courses in Fus'ha (modern Arabic) and Darija (Moroccan Arabic) are taught by professionals trained specifically to teach Arabic as a second language. Lecturers include outstanding scholars in the areas of social science, humanities, literature, religion, and architecture as well as artists, journalists, NGO activists, artisans, and craftsmen. The CCCL is located in a nineteenth century building in the medina (old city) of Rabat.

Rabat Internship Program

Students have the opportunity to immerse themselves in the Arabic language and Arab culture by learning and living in Rabat, the cosmopolitan, capital city of Morocco in the Fall Semester. In this program students will study Arabic language and, through coursework, internships, homestays, and excursions, examine the history, politics, and religion of the ever-changing region of the Middle East and North Africa. Upon completion of the program, students earn 16 Boston University credits.

REQUIRED COURSES

Students register for either one or two intensive language courses (four credits) offered at the beginning, intermediate and advanced levels. Participants are placed into language courses based on in-country oral proficiency interviews, written exams, and previous coursework.
