Second-Semester Chinese
CAS LC 112

Boston University Study Abroad: Shanghai
Spring/Fall

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

This course is designed for students who have taken LC 111 and students who are motivated to learn standard Mandarin Chinese. We will continue to consolidate your Chinese foundation by focusing on the following aspects: vocabulary, structure of characters and grammar. Focus will also be placed on oral practice of daily conversations. This course will cover Lesson 11 to Lesson 20 in Integrated Chinese Level 1-Part 2.

Credits: 4
Prerequisites: LC 111

COURSE MATERIALS:

Textbook: Integrated Chinese: Simplified Characters Textbook, Level 1, Part 2

Workbook: Integrated Chinese Level 1 Part 2 Workbook: Simplified Characters
ISBN: 978-0-88727-674-3

COURSE OBJECTIVES:

The objective of this class is to help
- Develop basic communication and “survival” skills;
- Combine and recombine information in the target language;
- Locate target language information on topics they are familiar with;
- A concrete knowledge of customs and manners, geography, some major cities, shopping conventions and major holidays in Chinese-speaking countries;
- Learn some basic idiomatic expressions;
- Master the basic sound system, acquire correct pronunciation and intonation;

COURSE OUTCOMES:
If students come to class regularly, complete all of the in-class assignments, homework, and average a B on their tests, they will be able to reach the novice mid level on the language proficiency scale developed by the American Council on the Teaching of Foreign Languages (ACTFL).

- In terms of speaking, this means that students will be able to communicate using a number of isolated words and memorized phrases in particular learned contexts (i.e. food, shopping, leisure activities, family). Students can respond to direct questions in two-to-three word sentences and give an occasional stock answer. They will still pause frequently as they search for simple vocabulary, and still resort to repetition or words from their native language.

- In terms of writing, Students can rewrite fairly correctly basic characters learned in class. Students can reproduce from memory a modest number of words or phrases in context and supply limited information on simple forms and documents as well as other basic biographical information, such as names, numbers and nationality. When writing on familiar, well-practiced topics, they can be quite accurate, but writing on less familiar topics brings with it a marked decrease in accuracy.

- In terms of listening, students can recognize and begin to understand a number of high-frequency, highly contextualized words and phrases. They typically understand a little more than they can say or ask for, and repetition may be required.

- In terms of reading, students are able to identify a number of highly contextualized words and phrases, including cognates, but rarely understand material that exceeds a single phrase. Re-reading is often required.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS:

In order to achieve the objectives of this course, students are expected to spend at least TWO to THREE hours per day outside of class reviewing daily all new words and grammar patterns, memorizing vocabulary, completing homework assignments, listening to supplementary audio materials and previewing the next day’s class.

This intensive course requires maximum student participation and preparation. Students are expected to come to class having fully prepared to participate as actively and accurately as possible. In order to maintain a fast pace of acquisition, students are required to prepare each lesson before class, which means you need to gain familiarity with the new textbook lesson. Study new words (pronunciation, meaning, usage, and characters) and grammatical structures in the Study Guide on your own. The instructor will distribute a study guide handout in class before every new lesson is introduced.

ASSESSMENT, GRADING SCALE, AND COURSE EXPECTATIONS:

Assessment:
Students’ language proficiency will be assessed in a variety of ways, both through formal oral and written tests and informally in class. After students have acquired vocabulary or basic linguistic structures, they will have various opportunities to demonstrate that they have remembered and understood the new material, can apply it in a similar context, compare and analyze, as well as use the language creatively. Informal assessments will take on a variety of forms and may include role-plays and skits, writing a short email, or producing an illustration of a concrete situation.

Attendance, Preparation, and Participation (20% of grade):
The pace of the class will be steady. Students are required to attend all classes scheduled and take an active part in classroom activities. Please note two unexcused absences will lead to one-point deduction from your final score, as will three unexcused lateness. Active participation means that students do not only speak when called upon but contribute to class discussions. Students who do not engage in class discussions and only speak when called upon cannot expect to receive a grade higher than C for participation. Please also note that students cannot receive a participation grade if they are absent from class. Some group oral projects are designed to engage students in communicative task thus to further improve student’s oral proficiency. Details and guidance will be given in class.

Homework (15% of grade):
Regular homework will be given at the end of each lesson. Late or incomplete homework or compositions will be graded but only receive half credit. Homework received more than one week after the due date will receive no credit.

In-class Dictation Quizzes (15% of grade):
A written quiz on Chinese characters and grammar will be given after the new lesson is introduced, focusing on vocabulary and grammar. It is recommended that you preview each lesson before class. This means that you are required to preview each lesson before class. Guidance will be provided in Study Guide. Missed quizzes cannot be made up. But you will have the option of dropping the THREE lowest grades to allow flexibility for excused absences and emergencies.

There will be one Mid-term Exam and one Final Exam. Each exam will have an oral proficiency test in the form of interview plus a listening and written component.

COURSE POLICIES:

Absences:
Excused absences will only be granted for documented illness or emergency, for which you MUST contact Instructor PRIOR TO CLASS. (Doctors in China routinely give out notices for workplaces, to document your illness.) If for some justifiable reason you need to plan to be absent from class on a certain day, you are required to give advance notice to the instructor, except for emergency cases.
Each unexcused absence will result in a 0.5% deduction from your final grade.
Two unexcused absences = 1-point deduction; 3 unexcused lateness = 1-point deduction
Make-up tests or exams will not be permitted except in the case of illness or emergency situations.
