Getting Pomp-ed Up
