

Boston University Graduate School of Arts & Sciences Application for Admission

General Application Information

Before you complete the Application for Admission, you should consult the Graduate School of Arts & Sciences Bulletin website for current general School policies and those of the various departments and programs. You may view the current bulletin on the web at www.bu.edu/academics/grs. Attention to detail will facilitate processing this application.

Please note that the Application for Admission also serves as an application for departmental and Graduate School merit-based financial assistance from Boston University. By checking the “Yes” box after the “Do you wish to be considered for financial aid from Boston University (excluding loans and Work-Study)?” question on the Application for Admission, you will be considered for all University sources of merit-based financial aid. There is no separate application for these forms of financial aid. For details of types of University aid available, consult the financial aid sections below.

Applicants who have twice been rejected for admission to the same degree program must submit a letter of approval for application from the current director of graduate studies for the department to which they seek admission.

Application Fee

The required application fee is $70 USD. Credit card payment is accepted with the online application only. The online application is available at bu.edu/cas/admissions/graduate/apply/. For paper applications, include a check or money order payable to Boston University for the nonrefundable amount of $70. This fee must be paid in U.S. currency or check; international money order; or an international check in U.S. funds drawn on a bank in the United States. Credit card payment or traveler's checks are not acceptable with this application. Your application will not be considered without payment of the application fee, and the fee cannot be waived or deferred.

Application Deadlines

For some programs, the deadlines for admission with full consideration for all available forms of Graduate School of Arts & Sciences merit-based financial aid are January 15 for fall admission and October 15 for spring admission. Please be aware that many programs have an earlier deadline for fall admission/financial aid consideration.

Adhering to these deadlines will ensure you are considered for all available forms of merit-based financial aid, both University-wide and departmental.

Individual departments/programs may have later deadlines if you wish to be considered for admission only, or if you do not wish to be considered for financial aid at all. These deadlines are listed on the Department/Program Information Sheet. By submitting a complete application by the deadlines stated there, you will be considered for financial assistance as departmental funds allow.

Applications that are complete at the time of the deadlines will be given priority. An application is considered complete when all required credentials, as listed below, have been received by the Graduate School of Arts & Sciences.

Credentials Required

In general, a complete application consists of the completed Application for Admission (including both the School Copy and the Department Copy if using the paper application), a personal statement, three letters of recommendation unless otherwise noted, official transcripts from every college or university attended, and official results of the Graduate Record Exam (GRE) General Test. Please refer to the Application and Credential Requirements page for a detailed listing of credential requirements.

Standardized Test Scores

The Graduate School of Arts & Sciences requests that official results of required standardized test scores be sent directly to the Graduate School of Arts & Sciences Admissions Office from the testing center. To determine which test scores are required, please consult the Application and Credential Requirements page and the Department/Program Information Sheet.

Important Notice

Applicants should note that all materials submitted in support of an application become the sole property of the University and neither the originals nor copies will be provided to the applicant for other uses.

Nondegree (“Special Student”) Applicants

Persons with an accredited U.S. bachelor's degree or its international equivalent who do not wish to enter a degree program of the Graduate School of Arts & Sciences may apply to a department or division in the Graduate School for admission as a special student with nondegree status.

Nondegree applicants must submit the required $70 application fee, as well as both the School Copy and the Department Copy of the Application for Admission. Please include a statement specifying your objectives in pursuing nondegree study. Additionally, all nondegree applicants are required to submit an official transcript of the most recent studies leading to an awarded degree. GRE General Test scores are not required.

Applicants previously enrolled as non-degree students who wish to apply to a degree program in the Graduate School of Arts & Sciences should refer to the current Graduate School of Arts & Sciences Bulletin website for rules and regulations regarding nondegree-to-degree application and transfer of credit policies.

Nondegree applicants are not eligible for University sources of financial aid or any financial aid that requires matriculation in a degree program.

Deferral Requests

The Graduate School of Arts & Sciences does not defer admissions. However, if you were admitted, you may request reconsideration for admission for a future semester that is up to one year beyond your initial semester of admission. Your original application will be reviewed along with all other applications for admission for the requested semester of reconsideration, taking into account present competition and work undertaken by you in the interim. The Admissions Committee will review, rate, and reach an admissions decision as if it were the first time you were applying. You need not submit a new application, set of credentials, or application fee. (Your original application credentials are kept on file for one year.) It is important to understand that the department is not obligated to re-offer admission. A request for admission reconsideration must be made in writing to the Graduate School of Arts & Sciences Admissions Office at 705 Commonwealth Avenue, Suite 112, Boston, MA 02215, or at the following website: www.bu.edu/cas/graduate/deferral.html.

University Sources of Aid

If you wish to be considered for merit-based financial assistance from Boston University, be sure to check "Yes" to the question "Do you wish to be considered for Boston University financial aid?" on your application for admission. Your application will then be considered for an award from any of the following University resources: Arts & Sciences Dean's Fellowship, Teaching Fellowship, Research Assistantship, and Martin Luther King Jr. Fellowship. For detailed descriptions of this aid, refer to the Graduate School Bulletin website section on Financial Aid. Please note that the above process does not include aid listed in the section "Other Sources of Aid" and that additional applications are required.

Other Sources of Aid

Application requests for federal Work-Study should be directed to Boston University Graduate School of Arts & Sciences, Financial Aid Office, 705 Commonwealth Avenue, Boston, MA 02215; 617-353-2696.

Federal Work-Study

Work-Study is a federally funded, need-based program for U.S. citizens and permanent residents, designed to promote academic-year and summer employment to help students meet educational expenses. Students are placed at the University or in nonprofit off-campus organizations in part-time positions during the academic year and in full-time assignments during the summer. This program provides students with the opportunity not only to earn money but also to develop skills that may be related to their courses of study. To apply, students must file a Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) and must complete a Work-Study Application, which can be requested from the Graduate School of Arts & Sciences Financial Aid Office. The deadline for receipt of applications is March 1 for summer Work-Study and May 1 for academic year Work-Study. Applications received after the deadline will be considered as federal funds allow.

Federal Direct Stafford/Ford Loans

Federal Stafford loans are long-term educational loans to U.S. citizens and permanent residents available through the federal government. Graduate students are eligible to borrow up to $8,500 per year in a Subsidized Direct Loan and up to an additional $12,000 per year in an Unsubsidized Direct Loan. Repayment begins six months after the student has graduated, terminated study, been granted a leave of absence, or enrolled on a less than half-time basis. Students who wish to borrow funds through this loan program must obtain a loan request form from the Graduate School. In addition, loan applicants must file the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA).

Credit-Based Loans

Credit-based educational loans are available through many banks and lending agencies. Contact the Graduate School Financial Aid Office to obtain information and applications for eligible loan programs.

See other awards, loan information, etc., in the Graduate School of Arts & Sciences Bulletin website section on financial assistance.

Under the provisions of the 1974 Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act you should be aware that the University is authorized to disclose personally identifiable information from your educational records to approved financial aid agencies to which you have applied for aid if access to that information is needed by these agencies to determine your eligibility for, the conditions of, and/or maintenance of aid, or to enforce terms connected with the receipt of such aid.

Important Information for Graduate School of Arts & Sciences Applicants

Once you receive a postcard from the Graduate School of Arts & Sciences acknowledging receipt of your application, please address further inquiries regarding the status of your application and/or follow-up credentials directly to the Graduate Admissions Coordinator in your department/program of application.

Additional Information for International Applicants

International students are responsible for making arrangements for travel to and from Boston and for adequate financial resources, including tuition and living expenses, for at least one year at Boston University. Refer to the Graduate School of Arts & Sciences Estimate of Expenses on the previous pages for further information.

Because of the relatively brief amount of time available for processing and reviewing applications for admission to the spring semester, international students are strongly advised to apply only for fall semester admission.

A limited number of teaching fellowships and assistantships are available to qualified international students with superior fluency in English. U.S. immigration regulations generally prohibit international students from accepting employment during the first year of study in the United States unless the University offers an appointment together with admission. Information and assistance regarding governmental and University regulations may be obtained by writing to the Boston University International Students & Scholars Office (ISSO), 888 Commonwealth Avenue, Boston, MA 02215, USA. The ISSO can also be reached by email at isso@bu.edu. For further advice and assistance in seeking admission, international students are advised to consult the nearest U.S. embassy, consulate, or information center.

Boston University International Student Data Form

This form must be completed by all international students applying for admission. Please answer all of the questions completely and return the form with the requested financial documentation and copies of U.S. immigration documents (if applicable) to the Admissions Office reviewing your academic application. Once you have been admitted to a program of study (and, in some cases, once you have formally accepted the offer of admission), the Admissions Office will send this form, the supporting documents, and a file to the Boston University International Students & Scholars Office (ISSO). Once your file has been reviewed and determined to be complete, the ISSO will forward an official immigration document to you with instructions on how to apply for the student visa at the nearest U.S. Embassy or Consulate. If you are currently in the U.S., the ISSO will forward specific immigration instructions to you to facilitate your enrollment.

 2. An official bank statement or credit reference from a bank stating the availability of the minimum estimated expenses as indicated on the Estimate of Expenses.
- If you will be funded by your government, an organization, a company, etc., the sponsor must submit a letter of sponsorship on official letterhead which states:

 2. Exactly which expenses will be covered (i.e., academic fees, living expenses, health insurance, financial support for family members, travel, etc.)
 3. The length of the financial support.

Employment

In securing a visa, an entering international student must prove to the satisfaction of Boston University, the American Consul, and the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services that he/she has sufficient funds for at least one year of study. Paid employment is therefore not permitted during the first semester of one's studies unless it is an assistantship.

After the first semester, international students may work on campus by securing written permission from the International Students & Scholars Office. If permission is granted, the student may work up to 20 hours per week during the academic year and full time during the summer and vacation periods. There is often a shortage of on-campus jobs, and some students are unable to find employment. Students on F-1 visas may apply for off-campus employment only after they have been an F-1 student for a year in the United States and only after a number of conditions are met.

Those persons on J-1 visas may engage in any employment specified on the IAP-66 form. The IAP-66 form is the document used to obtain a visa. Such employment authorization is usually reserved, however, for foreign faculty, research scholars, and teaching assistants (TAs), and not for undergraduate students. If there is a clear, urgent need for employment, J-1 students may request work authorization, either on or off campus, from their visa sponsor (which might be an agency, or Boston University). If the sponsor believes the work will not interfere with the educational objectives being pursued, the sponsor can grant the J-1 student permission to work up to 20 hours per week during the academic year and full time during the summer and vacation periods. No authorization is needed from the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

Usually, at the completion of their academic program, students can apply at the International Students & Scholars Office for practical training authorization, which will allow them to work in their field and be paid.

In all cases, visa regulations require that foreign students maintain a full course of study each semester (minimum of 12 credit hours).
