Established in 1975, the Center for English Language and Orientation Programs (CELOP) is one of the top institutions in the U.S. dedicated to helping students and professionals improve their English and understand American culture.

Accredited by CEA, the Commission on English Language Program Accreditation, CELOP offers more than a dozen academic and pre-professional programs to hundreds of students every year. CELOP students are Boston University students and have access to the resources and facilities of one of the top universities in the U.S.

The CELOP student body includes aspiring university students, high school students and professionals, and represented 50 countries in 2017. CELOP students have achieved success in a wide range of fields and have included researchers, CEO’s, diplomats, military leaders, and entertainment stars. Students seeking university admission have been accepted by 22 of the Top 50 national universities as ranked by U.S. News and World Report since 2012.
Established in 1839, Boston University (BU) is one of the leading private research universities in the world. With 33,000+ undergraduate and graduate students, 300,000+ alumni, 250+ fields of study, and 17 schools and colleges, BU is the fourth-largest private university in the United States. BU is ranked 37th in the 2018 U.S. News and World Report list of national universities and 39th in their list of global universities. Undergraduates at BU come from more than 130 countries, which creates a diverse student body that is exposed to a wide range of global cultures and perspectives.
STUDENT LIFE

Experience Boston
CELOP students have access to

- BU clubs, student organizations, club sports, and the Fitness and Recreation Center
- CELOP clubs and activities
- Free and discounted tickets to local attractions, including sporting events (Boston Celtics, Red Sox, BU sports teams) and museums
- Volunteering opportunities

Boston is home to 60 museums, over 50 historic sites, 54 colleges and universities, multiple championship-winning sports teams, and world-class restaurants, shopping, and entertainment.
