Academic Misconduct

The College of Fine Arts strives to be a community in which students believe that the work they produce is being judged fairly and that they are not put at an academic disadvantage by another student's dishonesty. The College has a policy on academic misconduct which students are given upon entrance. Additional copies are available in the Office of the Dean (Room 230) and online on the CFA website under Resources. Students are expected to be familiar with this policy. Questions on academic misconduct can be directed to Alyssa Baker (afbaker@bu.edu) or Patricia Mitro (pmitro@bu.edu) in the Dean's Office.

Here's a brief overview of what constitutes Academic Misconduct:

1. Cheating on exams
2. Plagiarism
3. Theft of an exam
4. Unauthorized conversation during an exam
5. Alteration of grades or other university records
6. Submitting the same work for more than one course
7. Giving exam information to another student
8. Allowing someone else to complete your work
9. Altering, destroying, or stealing another student's work
10. Removing materials from studios, libraries, or offices without permission

Each act of misconduct will be faced with penalties that range from failing a course to expulsion from the university.

Safety

Although our campus is quite safe, we are located in a city. Because we want visitors to come see our productions, concerts and exhibitions, our buildings are open during the daytime. Therefore, it is important not to leave any valuables unattended (backpacks, computers, instruments, etc).

If you have something stolen or if you spot someone who looks suspicious, call the BU Police at 3-2121 (the phone number is on the back of your Terrier Card).

Sexual Harassment

Boston University is committed to the principle that no employee, student, or applicant for employment or admission should be subject to sexual harassment. The University strives to provide workplaces and learning environments that promote equal opportunity and are free from illegal discriminatory practices, including sexual harassment. Sexual harassment is a violation of federal and state laws and of University policy, as is retaliation against any individual who in good faith files a complaint of sexual harassment or cooperates in the investigation of such a complaint. Upon receipt of a complaint of sexual harassment or retaliation, Boston University will undertake a fair and thorough investigation, with due regard for the rights of all parties. If you have any questions or concerns about sexual harassment please contact one of the individuals listed below:

Weekend Guide

The Student Activities Office is a great resource for activities and inexpensive excursions. They also produce all the information about university clubs and activities. Check out their website at www.bu.edu/sao

*Want to go to the movies? Go to the SAO office (4th floor of the GSU) to get Regal Theatre tickets for $6.00.

- Keep an eye out for BU's "Drive-in Movies!" While the weather is nice, movies will be shown at the BU beach every few weekends. These movies are free and very popular, so show up early with a picnic and plenty of blankets.
- BU Central, in the lower level of the George Sherman Union, is a great place to hang out with friends. Free billiard tables, big-screen TVs, table tennis, and a long list of guest artists that range from local bands to comedians to hypnotists. Check out upcoming events on their website at www.bu.edu/sao/bucentral.
- Keep an eye on upcoming CFA events. The student government hosts events to bring the CFA community together such as barbecues, Halloween bashes, and other fun trips and projects. Events are listed at www.bu.edu/cfa.
- Visit BU Today, an online newsletter, to see the most update list of university-wide events at www.bu.edu/today.
- Be sure to read all e-mails from CFA since they generally contain important information and updates for the events calendar.

Transportation in Boston

The B.U.S.

(Boston University Shuttle)

Frequently Asked Questions:

What is the BUS?

The BUS is the Boston University Shuttle that runs from West Campus to the BU Medical Center, and stops along the way at the BU Theatre.

Why would I need to ride the BUS?

If you are a theatre or music student working at the BU Theatre, the BUS will take you there. There's an art store on the corner of Huntington Ave for visual arts students.

What makes it better than the T?

The BUS is free and reliable.

Where does the BUS stop and when does it run?

Visit www.bu.edu/thebus and print out a schedule.

The T and Buses

Map of the T:

Frequently Asked Questions:

How much does the T cost?

The T costs $2.00 if you pay in cash, but if you use a pre-paid, refillable Charlie Card it costs $1.70 per ride. The city buses cost $1.50 in cash and $1.25 with a Charlie Card.

How do I get to CFA?

The College of Fine Arts is located at 855 Commonwealth Avenue. The stop is called BU West and it is on the Green Line B train towards Boston College. You can also take the 57 bus that runs from Kenmore Station to Watertown, so it goes through BU campus and through Allston, Brighton, Newton, and Watertown.

How do I get to the BU Theatre?

Take the T inbound to Hynes Convention Center (the second underground stop) and walk down Mass Ave for 6 or 7 blocks, until you get to Huntington Ave. Or you can take the B.U.S.

How do I get anywhere else?

Go to www.mbtta.com. They have a program that lets you enter in your starting location and your destination and they tell you which lines to take (T and bus) and how to walk there once you get off. Don't be afraid of the city bus, it is less expensive and often less crowded than the T.

Boston Neighborhoods

A Very Short Guide to Living, Eating, Shopping, and Strolling

Allston/Brighton

The Green Line B Train (Toward Boston College) or the 57 or 66 Buses

Allston is where most undergraduate BU students live when they move off-campus. It's a great place to get your first apartment. Aside from reasonable rent, Allston also has a lot of shops and restaurants that cater to a young clientele. Try Herrell's Renaissance Café at 155 Brighton Avenue for great coffee and amazing homemade ice cream. Getting a bike is a great way to get around Boston and one of the best bike shops in the city is in Allston: International Bicycle Center at 89 Brighton Avenue. Brighton is an even cheaper place to live and it's quieter than Allston. There is also a plethora of wonderful ethnic food restaurants in Brighton. Try Asahi at 418 Market Street for wonderful sushi or Esperia Grill at 344 Washington Street for great Greek food.

Cambridge

Kendall/MIT through Harvard Square stops on the Red Line

Cambridge has tons of unique neighborhoods like Harvard Square, Central Square, Kendall Square, and Inman Square. Harvard campus is a great place for a romantic stroll. Central Square has lots of fun restaurants and music venues that sometimes have all-ages events (The Middle East, Cantab Lounge, T.T. the Bear's Place, etc). Inman Square is good to visit for independent clothing and food shops like Christina's

Spice & Specialty Foods at 1255 Cambridge Street. Kendall Square is great for seeing movies at the Kendall Square Cinemas (see Movies section). Just hop on the Red Line and explore.

Brookline

The Green Line C (Toward Cleveland Circle) and D (Toward Riverside) Trains

Brookline is a beautiful city. There are some amazingly pretty neighborhoods there, but rent can cost you an arm and a leg. If you can afford it, Coolidge Corner and Washington Square are great places to live. For those of us who are pinching pennies, though, Coolidge Corner and Washington Square are great places to visit. Coolidge offers a fantastic movie theater (see Movies section) and lots of great restaurants. Try Zaftigs Delicatessen at 335 Harvard Street for brunch or Anna's Taqueria (which is actually a small chain with a few locations around Boston) at 446 Harvard Street for amazing burritos. In Washington Square try Athan's Bakery at 1621 Beacon Street for great espresso, gelato, and baklava.

Back Bay/South End/Fenway

Kenmore/Hynes/Copley stops on the Green Line

Fenway park is the home of the Red Sox. Going to a game is a lot of fun, however beware of Red Sox fans during the playoffs. They can get pretty rowdy. Also be aware that during a home game the Fenway area can get frustratingly crowded. Back Bay is an affluent neighborhood with lots of great shopping and restaurants. Visit Newbury Street for tons of shops where you can find clothes, music, shoes, and much more. Copley Square is also a great location for shopping and dining. The huge and gorgeous Boston Public Library is located in Copley Square. The South End is a beautiful neighborhood and a great place for foodies. High-end restaurants abound. Try Addis Red Sea for Ethiopian food at reasonable prices (at 544 Tremont Street), or for a fancier night out, try Sibling Rivalry at 525 Tremont Street.

Downtown/Beacon Hill/Chinatown

Park Street/Downtown Crossing/South Station stops on the Red Line

Downtown is known as the theatre district—it has lots of great theatres that show Broadway plays while they're on tour. Downtown is also home to clubs and concert venues such as The Roxy. Beacon Hill is a very affluent neighborhood (John Kerry lives there) full of beautiful brownstones. It's a great place for an afternoon stroll. Chinatown has lots of great Asian restaurants. There is dim sum, of course, but also some fantastic Vietnamese food. Try Pho Pasteur at 682 Washington Street. This is also where South Station is located. South Station is the main train station and bus depot for the commuter rail, Amtrak, Greyhound, and Chinatown buses to New York.

The North End

The Government Center stop on the Green Line

The North End is Boston's Little Italy. It is just a short walk from the Government Center T stop and is home to tons of fantastic Italian restaurants—too many to list. Just take a walk through the busy streets and check out the menus posted outside the restaurants. There are also some world-famous bakeries like Mike's Pastry at 300 Hanover Street or Modern Pastry at 257 Hanover Street. This is a great place to go with family or friends and is also quite romantic, but be careful if you're heading out on a Friday or Saturday night as it can get very crowded and you may end up waiting hours for a table at every restaurant you try.

Jamaica Plain

Jackson Square through Forest Hills stops on the Orange Line

Jamaica Plain is home to lots of liberal young people and independent shops. It is a great place to visit and just walk around. It has a very family-oriented, neighborhood feel. Take a walk around Jamaica Pond, or visit Centre Street, the main thoroughfare. Try J.P. Licks at 659 Centre Street for wonderful ice cream, or Alchemist Lounge for great food at 435 S Huntington Avenue.

Somerville

Porter Square/Davis Square/Alewife stops on the Red Line

Somerville is the area just beyond Cambridge to the North of the Charles. This is a great place to get an apartment if you don't want to pay Cambridge prices. Davis Square is a fun place to spend an evening. Try the Somerville Theatre at 55 Davis Square. They play movies and host live music and comedy performances. And they are independent so they'll let you bring in outside food. How can you beat that?

South Boston

Broadway /Andrew stops on the Red Line

This area used to be known as a working-class residential neighborhood, but lately it has been undergoing rapid gentrification (new condos, hip new restaurants and bars, etc). Southie is still home to many classic Boston staples (lots of bars and pubs, but a few good restaurants, too) and it's right on the water. The beaches in Southie aren't great for swimming, but it's still nice to be by the ocean and it's a great place for a jog.

East Boston

The Blue Line

This is an up-and-coming neighborhood where rent is cheap, but it can be dangerous. However, it is worth a trip out on the Blue Line to go to Revere Beach. This beach is a great destination in the summer months, and even a fun place to visit in the off-season.

Dorchester

JFK/UMass Station through Butler Station on the Red Line (Toward Mattapan)

Dorchester is rough unless you know where to go, but rent is inexpensive and Castle Island Beach has a great park and a fun area for walking or jogging. And try Shanti for Indian/Pakistani food at 1111 Dorchester Ave.

Roslindale

Forest Hills stop on the Orange Line and the 39 Bus

Roslindale is a great place for thrift stores and specialty food shops and the rent is very affordable. Roslindale Village is a quaint area where lots of restaurants and shops are located. Visit the Boston Cheese Cellar at 18 Birch Street for great cheeses from all over the world as well as local cheeses from right here in Boston.
