

Journalism:

Students in the Department of Journalism will receive the degree of a Bachelor of Science in Journalism. Students should follow the Journalism curriculum guide, which is available at <http://www.bu.edu/com/resources/current-students/undergraduate/forms/>.

*All students in this department need to complete six specific requirements. Those requirements are:

JO250, Fundamentals of Journalism (students must finish CO201 first)

JO304, Online Journalism (students must finish JO303 first)

JO310, Beat Reporting (students must finish JO250 first)

JO357, History and Principles of Journalism

JO525, Media Law and Ethics

*In addition to the 6 required courses, students must also then take 3 additional Journalism courses (or twelve total academic credits) as program electives, all at the 300-level or higher. These courses are offered across a wide variety of fields and areas. Students are encouraged to take courses in their interest, and to cross specializations. However, students can also focus in one field if they so choose. Some of the courses available are in the following specializations:

Online Journalism:

JO508, Copy Editing

JO520, Advanced Media Design (JO301 required)

JO550, Advanced Multimedia (JO304 required)

Broadcast Journalism:

JO351, Reporting with Audio and Video (JO250 required)

JO435, Online Radio Newsroom (JO351 required)

JO451, Television Newsroom (JO351 required; typically only offered in Fall semester)

JO431, Video Enterprise Reporting (JO351 required; typically only offered in Spring semester)

*There are dozens of other courses to choose from for this requirement. Please consult the COM bulletin online for other options.

Registration for Spring 2016 begins on Sunday, November 8, 2015

The CAS Concentration: All students in this Department must also complete a three-course sequence known as the CAS concentration. This liberal arts requirement is in addition to the freshman/sophomore foundation requirements, and courses taken toward the CAS concentration cannot also count toward freshman/sophomore foundation requirements. The courses for the CAS concentration typically must be at the 300-level, or higher, in one department at CAS. There are some exceptions to this, which are explained on the department-specific curriculum guide. The prime exception is that any Journalism student who has officially declared a minor in CAS can use lower-level (100 or 200 level) courses toward the CAS concentration, provided they will not count toward freshman/sophomore foundation requirements. For students concentrating in History, 200-level courses can also count; for students concentrating in Philosophy or Sociology, one 100-or-200-level course can automatically count; for students concentrating in Computer Science, any three CS courses, regardless of level, can count.

Electives: Please note that students need 128 total credits to finish a Bachelor of Science degree. Completion of the freshman/sophomore requirements, as well as these 12 major-specific requirements, will usually not amount to 128 total credits. Students will therefore have electives to take to reach the minimum credit requirement. Electives can be fulfilled using any academic coursework, including other courses in COM. Students often choose to complete electives by declaring minors (mostly in CAS, but also in COM, SHA, CFA, Questrom, and any other college at BU), by going to abroad programs, by declaring a Dual Degree program, etc.

Internships: Students majoring in Journalism are allowed to receive internships for credit once they have junior standing, have completed both JO250 and either JO303 or JO357, and have a 3.0 in COM. Students should speak with their specific internship coordinator in order to learn more about registering for internships. For News Broadcast, the internship coordinator is RD Sahl (rdsahl@gmail.com); for Sports Broadcast, the internship coordinator is Frank Shorr (fshorr@bu.edu); for News-Editorial, Magazine, and Photo, the internship coordinator is Bill McKeen (wmckeen@bu.edu).

Studying Abroad: Students are allowed to apply to an abroad program once they have achieved junior status. Specific GPA and pre-requisite course requirements are also needed. Those can be reviewed on our Study Abroad Fact Sheet, located at <http://www.bu.edu/com/resources/current-students/undergraduate/forms/>. Students are encouraged to speak with COM Students Services to discuss academic implications of studying abroad, and also to inquire about specific abroad programs with their faculty advisor. However, please note that all study abroad approval paperwork must be signed at COM Undergraduate Affairs.

Overloading: COM juniors can overload up to 20 credits if they have a 3.0 overall GPA or higher, and can do so without extra charge if they have a 3.3 or higher. COM seniors, however, can overload up to 20 credits at no extra charge regardless of GPA.

Courses marked as “permission required” just mean that you need to be a COM student to register for them at your assigned time, so unless there are flags or you do not meet the pre-requisites, you do not need permission to plan and register for any COM classes at your assigned time.

*Please be aware that COM students are allowed to double major, or declare a minor, within COM. Journalism students can declare a double major or a minor with either Communication or Film & Television. However, Journalism students cannot declare a minor within Journalism. For more information, please contact Undergraduate Affairs at comugrad@bu.edu.
