CO 201 RE-TAKE POLICY

Students who receive below the minimum grade may re-take COM CO 201 under these conditions:

- They must re-take COM CO 201 the semester immediately following their first attempt.
- They may not take COM CO 201 with the same professor.
- They must complete the course with the GPA and grade as required in the admission policy (above).
- They may only re-take COM CO 201 one time.
- Prior to retaking COM CO 201, students must meet the BU overall GPA requirement as stated in the admission policy (above).

Please note the following additional conditions:

- If a student receives the required grade to enter COM on the second try,
  - Both grades count toward the COM GPA and the BU overall GPA
  - The four credits from the first COM CO 201 course do not count toward graduation requirements.
  - Students must still meet our minimum GPA requirements (COM and BU) to IUT into COM. Please refer to the IUT Fact Sheet (available at COM Student Services, room 123).
- If a student does not receive the required grade to enter COM on the second try,
  - The second attempt may or may not count toward graduation requirements, please check with your current school of enrollment.
  - The student will not be admitted to COM and will have no further recourse.

COM MINORS

Students who are attempting to minor in COM, who did not receive the required grade, may re-take COM CO 201 once, immediately following their first attempt.

BUCOP POLICY

Students who are attempting to enroll in the BUCOP program are not allowed to take COM CO 201 more than once. In order to BUCOP, at anytime, the student must achieve the appropriate COM CO 201 grade in the first attempt.

CURRENT STUDENTS

Please note that this policy does not affect students already admitted to the College of Communication. COM students may not re-take COM CO 201 unless they receive a failing grade, then they are required to retake the course and receive a passing grade with a new professor. Both grades will affect the GPA.
