

Faculty Job Openings for Fall 2018

Assistant Professor

The Department of Economics has an opening at the rank of assistant professor (subject to final budgetary approval). Field of specialization is open, but priority is given to econometrics or empirical microeconomics/public policy. Candidates should have, or expect to complete, a PhD in economics by July 1, 2018, and they must have an exceptional record of teaching and research. The successful candidate will conduct research, teach courses at the undergraduate and graduate levels, mentor students, and perform service to the Department, the University, and the profession.

Boston University is committed to building a culturally, racially, and ethnically diverse scholarly community. Salary, benefits, and research support are competitive.

To apply, please submit a cover letter, job market paper, curriculum vitae, teaching evaluations, if available, and arrange for three letters of recommendation to be submitted through <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9766>. The application deadline is January 15, 2018, or until the position is filled.

We are an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. We are a VEVRAA Federal Contractor.

Associate Professor or Professor in Empirical Economics

The Department of Economics has an opening at the rank of Associate or Full Professor with tenure (subject to final budgetary approval) in the field of empirical economics, with particular interest (but not limited to) microeconomics of the family and/or gender. Candidates must have an international reputation in research and an exceptional record of teaching at the undergraduate and graduate levels. The successful candidate will conduct research, teach courses at the undergraduate and graduate levels, advise students, and perform service to the Department, the University, and the profession.

Boston University is committed to building a culturally, racially, and ethnically diverse scholarly community. Salary, benefits, and research support are competitive. To apply, please submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, job market paper and teaching evaluations, if available, to <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9764>. The application deadline is January 15, 2018, or until the position is filled.

We are an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. We are a VEVRAA Federal Contractor.

Faculty Job Openings for Fall 2018 – cont'd.

Associate Professor or Professor

The Department of Economics has an opening at the rank of associate or full professor with tenure (subject to final budgetary approval). Field of specialization is open, but priority is given to econometrics, macroeconomics, or empirical microeconomics/public policy. Candidates must have an international reputation in research and an exceptional record of teaching at the undergraduate and graduate levels. The successful candidate will conduct research, teach courses at the undergraduate and graduate levels, advise students, and perform service to the Department, the University, and the profession.

Boston University is committed to building a culturally, racially, and ethnically diverse scholarly community. Salary, benefits, and research support are competitive. To apply, please submit a cover letter, job market paper, curriculum vitae and teaching evaluations, if available, to <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajob/jobs/9765>

The application deadline is January 15, 2018, or until the position is filled.

We are an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. We are a VEVRAA Federal Contractor.

We are an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. We are a VEVRAA Federal Contractor.

Lecturer

The Department of Economics at Boston University has an opening for a non-tenure-track Lecturer of Economics beginning July 1, 2018 or later. The successful candidate should have a Ph.D. in Economics, an exceptional teaching record, and a minimum of four years of teaching experience. The candidate should be prepared to teach undergraduate classes at both the introductory and advanced levels. Competence to teach in a variety of undergraduate electives is essential. Also, an ability to teach at the Masters level is desirable. Salary, teaching load, and benefits are competitive and commensurate with experience.

Please use Academic Jobs Online, <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9965>, to submit an application. Applications will be accepted until January 15, 2018, or until the position is filled.

Materials to be submitted include a cover letter, a curriculum vitae, teaching evaluations, and two letters of reference.

We are an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. We are a VEVRAA Federal Contractor.