Subject: People Recruit in South Korea

Hello. I am a U.S. citizen living in South Korea helping university graduates find work abroad. If you have any upcoming graduates considering spending the next year living and working in a different culture, they may wish to contact our company. We find employment for U.S. residents who wish to teach English in South Korea. Our positions carry the following benefits:

- ~Salary: approximately US$1600 - $1750 per month, depending on the exchange rate
- ~Free studio apartment
- ~Cheap, superb health insurance
- ~Paid round trip airfare

There is no fee for our service, as we are paid by the employers that receive our clients. After finishing one year of teaching, our clients receive a bonus of one month's pay. We initially work with to answer their many questions about living and working in South Korea and find a position that suits their personal needs. We then guide our clients through the process of interviewing with employers and obtaining a Visa. We mail airplane tickets to our clients' home and pick them up at the airport. Once in Korea, our clients may call or stop by our office at any time with questions about living here.

We encourage your upcoming graduates to visit our website www.peoplerecruit.com for a more detailed account of our company. Or, they may simply email any questions to people@peoplerecruit.com. For those with an adventurous spirit, South Korea is an exciting place to live. I hope to hear from you soon.

Sincerely,
Chris Hammock
