CAS FY103, Academic Strategies; Mastering the Art of Learning

The Educational Resource Center and the College of Arts & Sciences are pleased to offer an 8-week seminar for students who wish to improve their academic performance by developing effective study strategies.

Students may register for either of two sections of this 8-week, one-credit seminar on the Student Link. Look for CAS FY103.
This fall, the ERC is offering two sections: Thursdays from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., and Fridays from 3 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. Students may register with a signed add/drop form by Friday, September 11.

Learning Styles: Cultivating the use of blended learning modalities to enrich comprehension.

The topic of teaching to specific learning styles is hotly contested in academe. Yet, students’ general conviction that they possess a preference for one learning style allows for a conversation about how applying multiple learning modalities to daily study affects cognition and retention.

Faculty are invited to request Learning Styles, a dynamic, exercise-based workshop for their students, which can be tailored to course content and presented in collaboration with the faculty member or Teaching or Learning Assistant.

Contact Cecilia Lalama at clalama@bu.edu for more information.

Avoiding Plagiarism: Request A Workshop for your class!

Unintentional plagiarism can affect students of all class years; undergraduate or graduate, international or domestic. The ERC offers an Avoiding Plagiarism workshop on a requested basis for faculty who want to offer students tips on keeping track of citations during the writing process.

If you would like to request a workshop, please visit our website at: http://www.bu.edu/erc/programs/workshops/request-a-workshop/.
