Welcome!

We have compiled this guide as an initial resource for international students arriving in the United States for the first time. We appreciate that the transition into our program can have unique challenges for international students, both in terms of understanding the academic expectations of a US University as well as the day-to-day challenges of acclimating to life in a US city with a variable climate like Boston. We hope this guide will help familiarize you with the basics of settling in. If you have questions, please feel free to get in touch. If we don't know the answer, we will do our best to connect you with someone who does.

- DGH Academic Team

Housing/Neighborhoods

Finding a place to live in Boston can be tricky, and it is best to start with your housing search as soon as possible. As with any urban environment, it is important to balance safety, cost and convenience as you look for a place to call home. Boston is a relatively expensive city, and monthly rent can range from $550 to over $1000 monthly depending on a number of factors. It is imperative that you start looking at the different neighborhoods and price ranges as soon as you have decided to attend BU, and keep in mind that the rental market moves quickly. A good place to start your search is with our Office of Housing Resources:

<http://www.bumc.bu.edu/ohr/>. Staff in this office are more than happy to speak with you over the phone or schedule an in-person meeting with you to give you advice on housing options. Also see: <http://www.bu.edu/offcampus/who-are-you/international-student/>.

Neighborhoods

Boston is made up of many smaller neighborhoods, each with unique characteristics and advantages. Students tend to live in Allston, Brighton, Somerville, Jamaica Plain, Brookline, and the South End. For comprehensive descriptions of Boston neighborhoods, see <http://www.bumc.bu.edu/ohr/neighborhoods/>. For more general information, see BU Today's series on visiting neighborhoods in Boston: <http://www.bu.edu/today/nearby-neighborhoods/>. Another useful site: <http://sph.bu.edu/Welcome/boston-and-its-neighborhoods/menu-id-617687.html>. This is the site that our BUSPHAdmissions Department created for new students, and it has lots of information!

Cost

Boston has very few one bedroom and studio style apartments, which tends to drive up the price for these options. If you are willing to live with other people, the price of your rent will likely decrease. If you are trying to find inexpensive housing, a good place to look for housemates is: <http://www.bumc.bu.edu/ohr/roommates/>. Additionally, several students have had success with finding other students to live with through our Facebook group for new students: <http://www.facebook.com/groups/286658368071701/>.

Safety and Crime

Like any large city, there can be safety concerns in some areas of Boston. Before signing a lease, it is a good idea to look up the address provided by the BPD to gauge the safety of the area. If you are uncomfortable with what you discover about an apartment or a neighborhood you are considering, please be cautious and continue your search.

Accessibility

The BU School of Public Health is located at the Medical Campus, which is on the boundary between the Roxbury and South End neighborhoods. Unfortunately, The BU Medical Campus is not directly on a public transportation rail line, officially the MBTA (Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority or the "T", for short). There are many buses with frequent service to the area. Try using the MBTA website, <http://www.mbta.com/>, or the transit function on google maps (maps.google.com) to find out what kind of bus service is available to the neighborhood you are considering. There is also a free BU Bus that runs between the BU Charles River Campus and the Medical Campus. If you live near one of the stops, this is a handy choice.

Brokers

Many people find apartments through the help of a broker, who is a real estate agent that helps you find an apartment. Brokers typically charge a fee of one month's rent for their services, though this can vary quite a bit. It can be difficult to distinguish reputable apartment brokers from the disreputable ones before you pick them. Here is a list of apartment brokers compiled from students at the BU medical campus:

<http://www.bumc.bu.edu/ohr/housingsearch/realestateagencies/>. You can also find some information about apartment brokers from Yelp.com.

Alternatively, you can search craigslist.org for no fee or owner listed apartments and sublets. As with any other situation, never give out personal information to someone you don't know on the internet. Although it may not happen often, identity theft is a real concern when looking for and applying for rental housing. Please be cautious.

BU actually manages an independent realty office: <http://www.bu.edu/rpm/>. You can get in touch and see what the possibilities are. Check out BU's graduate housing availability through Boston University's Off-Campus Services website <http://www.bu.edu/offcampus/who-are-you/graduate-student/>.

Short-Term Housing

While in the stage of securing an apartment in Boston, there are several temporary living situations we recommend that you consider. These fill up quickly. If you know that you will not have an apartment on the day of your arrival, make sure to book a hostel! Late August and early September are a busy time with many students moving to Boston, so make these arrangements as soon as possible.

Long Term Housing

- An option for long-term stay for male international students is The International Fellowship House. The IFH was established over 40 years ago and the cost includes housing and 10 meals each week. The house has a Christian emphasis, but welcomes students from all religious backgrounds. Several international BUSPH students have stayed here over recent years. If you are interested, call as soon as possible to find out about availability for the fall and what the application process entails.

- An option for female full-time graduate students at Boston University is BU's Fisk House. Located at 146 Commonwealth Avenue near Dartmouth Street in Boston's Back Bay, Fisk House is a cooperative residence for women graduate students enrolled at Boston University. Administered by the Office of Residential Life and supported and maintained by the Boston University Women's Council, Fisk House provides a residence for 16 students at nominal cost. It is the only subsidized graduate student residence at Boston University.

Communication, Transportation, and Amenities

Communication

A few companies that provide prepaid mobile phone service in the United States are:

- AT&T
- Verizon Wireless
- T-mobile
- Virgin Mobile
- Boost Mobile

Several of the companies listed offer service with or without a contract. Contracts are usually for 2 years and include costly cancellation fees for early contract termination. If you know you will only be in the US for 3 semesters, it works well to use a prepaid mobile phone while you are here. For a full list of providers, visit this review site: <http://cell-phone-providers-review.toptenreviews.com/prepaid-cell-phones/>.

Places to Purchase Pre-Paid Cell Phones:

- Best Buy: <http://www.bestbuy.com/site/Mobile-Cell-Phones/No-Contract-Phones/abcat0801002.c?id=abcat0801002>
- Radio Shack: <http://www.radioshack.com/family/index.jsp?categoryId=4314708&s=null>
- Target: http://www.target.com/c/phones-no-contract-cell-electronics/-/N-5xte4#?lnk=nav_t_spc_8_inc_2_4
- Amazon.com

Another form of communication that has worked for international alumni is Rebtel. It is a voiceover plan, similar to Skype and can be used on smartphones, landlines, featured phones, or PC's. Learn more about it here: <http://www.rebtel.com/>. They offer low rates on text messaging to many countries.

Other options

Banking

As soon as you reach Boston, it is imperative that you set up a bank account where you will be able to access your funds. We recommend you open an account that has both checking and savings. Checking will be for quick access for things like groceries, and savings will be money that you save up for things such as your monthly housing fee.

The bank we recommend for international students is Bank of America. They have friendly and efficient customer service at their Boston University Charles River Campus location, and they will be able to guide you through the necessary steps:

Bank of America

George Sherman Union Branch
771 Commonwealth Avenue Boston, MA 02115
617-424-0187

MBTA T-stop: BU Central on the B-line of the Green Line

Hours:

Monday - Friday 9am-4pm

Saturday Closed

Sunday Closed

All you will need to open a checking and savings account is $25, your passport, and a BU ID. Customer service will have information on how to wire funds from your home country into this account.

MBTA: Boston's Public Transportation System

The Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority offers public transportation services including buses, trains and a subway system commonly known as the T. To learn more about the different routes and areas where you can find public transportation, as well as the current prices for MBTA passes, tools for riding the subway, etc., please see this website:

<http://www.mbta.com/index.asp>.

If you know that you will be using MBTA on a frequent basis once you arrive in Boston, you might consider applying for the semester T pass in advance at:

http://www.bu.edu/parking/students/semesterpass_fall/. The deadline for the fall semester is August 3rd, and the semester pass option is slightly discounted over the monthly pass option.

However, there is no need to purchase an MBTA pass before you arrive in Boston particularly if you are unsure how often you will need it. You may purchase your bus and subway card, known as the “Charlie Card” for a $70 monthly rate at any station in the Boston area. For the varying prices of passes depending on where you will be living and what type of pass you will need, please see this part of the MBTA’s website:

http://www.mbta.com/fares_and_passes/charlie/?id=24360.

If you already know that you will need a pass for your first semester go here http://www.bu.edu/parking/students/semesterpass_fall/ to sign up for a student semester pass.

*You must attend Orientation before courses start. You will receive information about Orientation with its specific dates, times, and topics that will be covered. You must attend the section that is just for international students. ISSO will be there to give out important information.

BUSPH Work and Internships

At BUSPH, we strive to prepare students for the post-graduate workforce. Besides skills-based courses and experienced faculty, our school has many resources for you to prepare for the next step in your career. Depending on the status of your visa, there may be certain restrictions on the type of job and number of hours you are able to work in the United States as an international student. Meet with ISSO in order to find out what regulations apply to you before starting your job search.

Opportunities may develop to undertake administrative tasks at the School, or to provide research support or teaching assistance to one of your professors. Listed below are some websites where you will be able to find options for student employment:

Career P.R.E.P.

*For BUSPH students who want to learn powerful skills to more effectively market themselves during your job search, both now and in the future. Career P.R.E.P is delivered in a "cohort" model. Students must have completed their first semester to qualify...but is highly recommended for all international students once they have done so. Attendance and assignments required for all sessions. All sessions held from 5-5:50pm in R103 unless otherwise noted. To register for the fall semester: <http://sph.bu.edu/Career-Office/career-prep/menu-id-617796.html>. Registration deadline for the fall 2013 semester is August 28, 2013.

BUSPH Academic Honesty

Boston University has a very strong policy on academic integrity. This not only bans cheating on exams, but requires full referencing of any ideas or materials taken from another source. Violation of the rules can result in suspension or other penalties. Many foreign students are not familiar with American practice on quotation and referencing. If you have any questions about what is allowed, consult a professor or instructor of one of your courses. You will find information on the policy at these sites:

Boston University's Academic Conduct Code
<http://www.bu.edu/academics/resources/academic-conduct-code/>

Standards of Academic Honesty and Disciplinary Procedures at BUSPH
<http://www.bu.edu/academics/sph/policies/standards-of-academic-honesty-and-disciplinary-procedures/>

Each semester, you will find the below text in each of your syllabi. This is the general outline of what Boston University expects of you as a student in terms of academic honesty:

Academic honesty is essential for students to attain the competencies the University and School expect of graduates, and any action by a student that subverts these goals seriously undermines the integrity of the educational programs at the School. Students at the Boston University School of Public Health are expected to adhere to the highest standards of academic honesty.

Academic misconduct is any intentional act or omission by a student which misrepresents his or her academic achievements, or attempts to misrepresent these achievements. While not an exhaustive list, the following acts constitute academic misconduct:

- Cheating on examinations. The use or attempted use of any unauthorized books, notes or other materials in order to enhance the student's performance in the examination, copying or attempting to copy from another student's examination, permitting another student to copy from an examination or otherwise assisting another student during an examination, or any other violation of the examination's stated or commonly understood ground rules.
- Plagiarism: Any representation of the work of another as his or her own constitutes plagiarism. This includes copying or substantially restating the work of another person without the use of quotation marks or other indication that the words of another have been copied, the use of any written or oral work from which the student has obtained ideas or data without citing the source, or collaborating with another person in an academic endeavor without acknowledging that person's contribution.

- Submitting the same work in more than one course without the consent of all the instructors
- Misrepresentation or falsification of data
- Allowing another student to represent your work as his or her own
- Violating the rules of an examination or assignment

Charges of academic misconduct will be brought to the attention of the Associate Dean for Education, who will review all such cases and decide upon the appropriate action. A student who is found guilty of academic misconduct may be subject to disciplinary action, up to and including dismissal from the School.

Please remember: if you have any questions about academic honesty and plagiarism at this school, contact your professor or advisor.

Physical and Mental Health

Health insurance

All BU students must carry health insurance meeting minimum standards. If you have insurance, use the site below to determine if it qualifies

Comparable coverage: <http://www.bu.edu/studentaccountingservices/resources/medical-insurance/comparable-coverage/>

If you need insurance, you can learn about the Boston University student health plan at: https://www.aetnastudenthealth.com/stu_conn/student_connection.aspx?groupID=711110

Resources

In addition to the services available through your insurance plan, Boston University runs a health clinic and a behavioral health program. If you are becoming depressed and/or anxious, do not hesitate to seek out this resource.

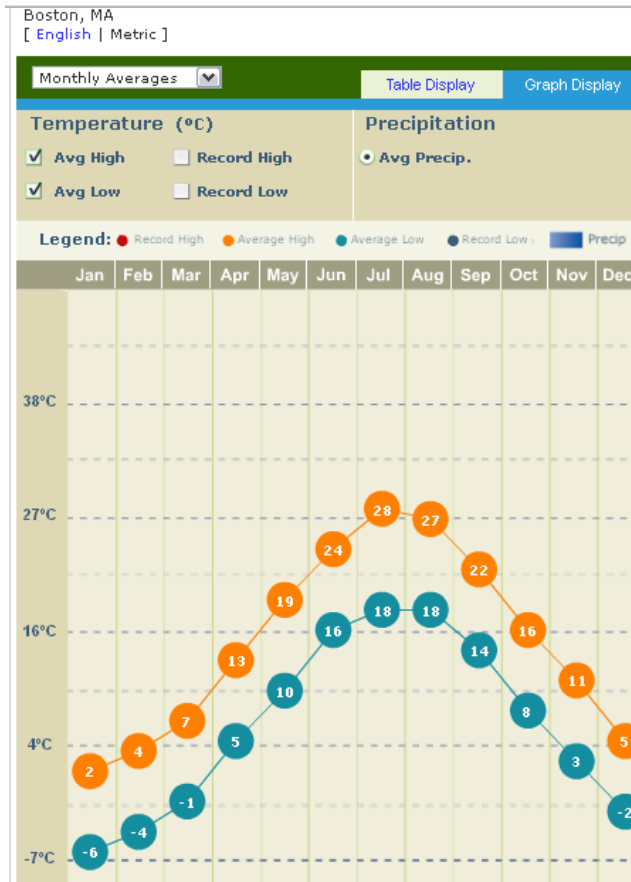

Behavioral Medicine at CRC: <http://www.bu.edu/shs/behavioral/>

Wellness and Prevention Services: <http://www.bu.edu/shs/wellness/>

Weather

Before arriving in Boston, it's important to know a little about our weather and climate. Winters are a surprise to many international students from warmer climates, and you will need warm clothing to get through our snowy season! Summer is generally hot with mild evening temperatures, and both fall and spring see their fair share of thunderstorms. A warm coat and a pair of rubber boots will be very helpful in cold and wet weather.

Massachusetts is known for its four distinct seasons. Below are the average Boston temperatures expressed in Celsius:

(www.weather.com)

In the United States, temperature is normally expressed in Fahrenheit. To convert temperatures to Celsius, use this website for conversions: <http://www.wbuf.noaa.gov/tempfc.htm>. You can use one of the following websites to look up weather forecasts when you will be living in Boston:

Social Life/Culture

Weekend Activities

BOSTON PUBLIC LIBRARY

This is beautiful library with very old architectural details and several statues. They have tours on the weekends and a nice café and gift shop, plus a beautiful European courtyard. Enter in the front, by the statues of the two women. You can also find magazines and newspapers from around the world available for anyone to read in the newspaper room. Ask a librarian to direct you.

The Boston Public Library offers free passes to several museums in the Boston area. All that is needed is that you have a current library card in order to reserve a pass. You can get discounted or free admission to places such as the Institute for Contemporary Art, the Museum of Fine Art, the New England Aquarium, the Harvard Museum of Natural History, and Zoo New England. Passes are limited, and you must select a branch location to pick your pass up in advance. For more information or to reserve a museum pass, visit: http://www.bpl.org/general/circulation/museum_passes.php.

THE FREEDOM TRAIL

The Freedom Trail (<http://www.thefreedomtrail.org/index.html>) is a walking trail that leads you to 16 nationally significant historic sites, every one of them an authentic American treasure. Preserved and dedicated by the citizens of Boston in 1958, the Freedom Trail today is a unique collection of museums, churches, meeting houses, burying grounds, parks, a ship, and historic markers that tell the story of the American Revolution and the early years associated with the Republic. The trail is marked by a red line on the road. You can walk the trail for free.

If you would like more information about the places and events visited on the trail, you might want to try one of the special tours led by members of the Freedom Trail Foundation. There is a cost associated with these tours. <http://www.thefreedomtrail.org/tickets/tours.html>.

FANEUIL HALL

Faneuil Hall Marketplace is actually four great places in one location — Faneuil Hall, Quincy Market, North Market and South Market, all set around a cobblestone promenade where jugglers, magicians and musicians entertain the passers-by. So by all means, stroll, shop, eat, laugh, wander, wonder and explore it all. There are frequent tours of Faneuil Hall on the weekends. Quincy Market is a good place to buy gifts made in Boston or t-shirts that say “Boston”. <http://www.faneuilhallmarketplace.com/>.

International Student Representatives

International students who have survived the Boston winter and thrived at BUSPH have offered to help new international arrivals. If you are interested in speaking with one of our international students or alumni, please contact the Carey Howard, the DGH Program Coordinator at careyeh@bu.edu and she will connect you.
