DASH for Health

This voluntary program is designed to help you eat better, exercise better, lose weight, and lower blood pressure; it was developed by physicians at BU and Boston Medical Center.

What is DASH for Health?

DASH for Health is an online nutrition and weight loss program that is FREE to all Boston University employees and up to three of their adult household members. Its aim is to help you learn better eating and exercise habits and it was designed right here at BU by a team of doctors and nutritionists lead by Dr. Tom Moore, on the Medical Campus.

New information is provided on the DASH website twice each week. Articles cover food, food preparation, eating out, losing weight, getting fit, and much more. In addition to providing new information each week, you have a web page especially for you where you can track progress in areas such as your weight, food intake, blood pressure, and exercise. The program has been tested with several thousand people and there is good evidence that people who use the program successfully reduce their weight, lower their blood pressure, and improve their eating habits. It’s recommended by the American Heart Association.

DASH Eating

All nutrition advice is based on the DASH Diet—a diet with more scientific proof behind it than any other eating plan. The DASH Diet is a well-balanced, easy-to-understand way of eating that gives you lots of choices, and it is scientifically proven to help you lose weight and lower blood pressure and cholesterol levels.

ESPlannerBASIC and ESPlannerPLUS

Traditional financial planning asks you to do all the hard work; it makes you set your own savings and life insurance targets. This puts you at risk. Set your targets too low, and you’ll undersave and under-insure. Set them too high, and you’ll oversave and over-insure.

Economic Security Planner (ESPlanner), developed by Boston University Professor Laurence Kotlikoff and other leading economists, finds the right targets. It calculates your family’s highest sustainable living standard and the amounts you need to save and insure to maintain that living standard over time.

BU is providing faculty and staff with a coupon equal to the purchase price of two versions of the software. All you pay is the sales tax.

1. ESPlannerBASIC with Advanced Features—($80 value)—A simplified online version of this lifetime, financial planning software. This product will give you the ability to save your data for a full year from the date of purchase. In addition to all the basic functions to determine the smoothest and highest living standard available based on your data input this version includes the ability to save multiple profiles so you can try different assumptions and includes Monte Carlo, Upside Investing, as well as default and custom asset classes. Watch their video at www.youtube.com/watch?v=L6DfoHKwUe4.

Additional Benefits

In addition to your Boston University benefits, federal and state laws require employers to provide you with certain other benefits. These statutory benefits include Social Security, Unemployment Compensation, and Workers’ Compensation.

Boston University pays the entire cost of Unemployment Compensation and Workers’ Compensation and also contributes to the cost of your Social Security benefits.

Statutory benefits may provide you and your family with financial assistance, in addition to University-sponsored benefits, when you are injured on the job, become disabled, retire, or die.

Social Security

The Social Security Act provides a range of programs to afford you a basic level of benefits in the event of your retirement, death, or disability. Most of these benefits are financed by payroll taxes.

Your Social Security benefits include:

- Retirement insurance
- Survivors’ insurance
- Disability insurance
- Medicare
- Supplemental security income

Social Security benefits are adjusted frequently, and the rules and regulations change. You should contact your local Social Security office to obtain the latest information about the benefits to which you may be entitled.
Unemployment Compensation

The University pays the Commonwealth of Massachusetts the cost of your unemployment compensation. You may be eligible to receive unemployment compensation benefits if you lose your job through no fault of your own. Unemployment compensation is coordinated through the Massachusetts Division of Unemployment Assistance, which determines your eligibility.

Workers’ Compensation

Massachusetts Workers’ Compensation laws prescribe certain medical, hospital, disability compensation, rehabilitation, and death benefits to be paid in the event of injury or death due to work-related accidents or illnesses. Boston University pays the full cost of insurance to cover these benefits. You are automatically covered by this insurance while you are employed by the University.

If you are injured while you are at work, report the injury to your supervisor immediately. Remember, minor injuries (which at the time may seem trivial, but may later require medical attention) may also be covered, provided they are reported when they occur.

Severance Pay Plan

A severance pay plan is available to eligible staff members. See your Employee Handbook for further details.
