MARTHA ALBERTSON FINEMAN
Emory University School of Law

Martha Albertson Fineman is the Robert W. Woodruff Professor of Law at Emory University School of Law. An internationally recognized scholar in family law, feminist jurisprudence, and law and society, she directs the pioneering Feminism and Legal Theory Project and the Vulnerability and the Human Condition Initiative. She is the author of pathbreaking books, such as The Neutered Mother, the Sexual Family and Other Twentieth Century Tragedies (Routledge, 1995) and The Autonomy Myth: A Theory of Dependency (The New Press, 2004), and is at work on The Vulnerable Subject: Anchoring Equality in the Human Condition (Princeton, forthcoming). She has edited or co-edited many volumes of scholarship growing out of the Feminism and Legal Theory Project, including, most recently, Transcending the Boundaries of Law: Generations of Feminism and Legal Theory (Routledge, 2010) and What Is Right for Children? The Competing Paradigms of Religion and Human Rights (Ashgate, 2009). She has received many awards for her teaching and writing, including the prestigious Harry Kalven Prize for her work in law and society. This lecture will be published in the Boston University Law Review.
