

Graduate Certificate Programs.

Specialized, career-focused credentials.

Boston University School of Law offers several distinct certificate programs. Allowing students to gain a specialized credential, these programs are offered both online and in residence in Boston, Massachusetts. Certificates can be taken as a stand-alone credential or as the first part of an LLM degree program.

The Programs.

- ENTERPRISE RISK MANAGEMENT & COMPLIANCE
- INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS LAW
- TRANSACTIONAL SKILLS
- FINANCIAL SERVICES COMPLIANCE
- ESTATE PLANNING

ADMISSIONS

Admission to BU Law's Graduate Certificate Programs is selective and largely dependent upon an applicant's academic record and demonstrated interest in the program. Unlike BU Law's LLM programs, Graduate Certificate Programs do not require a degree in law to enroll.

CREDIT TRANSFER INTO DEGREE PROGRAMS

Certificate program credit can be used toward a corresponding LLM degree, provided a candidate gains admission to an LLM program.

3 WAYS

to complete a certificate program: residential, online, or blended

12-CREDIT

certificate programs

Enterprise Risk Management & Compliance.

This specialized certificate program allows professionals to expand their skills in assessing and managing risk against an increasingly demanding and opaque corporate compliance landscape.

International Business Law.

Professionals access the innovative online and blended-learning courses of the Executive LLM in International Business Law without committing to the full degree program. Students are required to complete one 3-credit course and can select from the wide array of electives when choosing their remaining courses.

Transactional Skills.

The Transactional Skills program is designed to help professionals advance their proficiency in international business law transactions. Course highlights include International Business Negotiations, taught by Professor Robert Burdick, the director of BU Law's Civil Litigation & Justice Program. The course features live moderated negotiations among students.

AFFILIATION WITH THE EXECUTIVE LLM IN INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS LAW

The Executive LLM was established as a way for full-time working professionals to earn a degree while continuing to advance in their careers. As a certificate student taking courses offered by this master's program, you'll learn the same key doctrines of international business practice from the US perspective—taught by members of BU Law's regular teaching faculty—while you expand your international connections.

Financial Services Compliance.

Designed for professionals seeking a career in the fastest-growing employment area in financial services, this online certificate enables professionals to develop the knowledge, operational mindset, and analytical framework necessary to perform a compliance function at a major financial institution.

*Blended programs are primarily online but have two-week residential components.

Are they for you?

These programs are best for:

- Mid-career professionals seeking subject matter or skills-based specialization
- Professionals seeking professional development that will fit with their full-time work schedule
- Students not currently able to commit to a full master's degree program but who are looking to resume studies

Estate Planning.

Available in residential or online formats, the Estate Planning Certificate is ideal for lawyers and financial professionals seeking to better understand the legal issues surrounding estate planning. All of the courses are taught by the same leading tax and estate planning experts who teach in BU Law's Graduate Tax Program.
