

Variation in Dialects of English

So aren't I !

I'm done my homework.

I love me some syntax !

This course looks at...

- How dialects of English across the US differ from each other (with a brief look at British dialects).
- How linguists investigate grammatical diversity scientifically.
- How even non-standard dialects are rich and complex in their grammatical structure.
- How to be a well-informed consumer of media reports about variation in grammar.

These issues need studied !

Prereq: CAS LX 250 Introduction to Linguistics

Linguistics Major: Satisfies Analysis of a Specific Language Requirement

Divisional Studies:

Satisfies the Humanities requirement

Instructor: Neil Myler (<http://ling.bu.edu/people/myler>)

Can't nothing beat linguistics !

For further information, feel free to contact me: myler@bu.edu