

The Department of Mathematics and Statistics at Boston University invites applications for a non-tenure track Professor of the Practice position in the field of Statistics for the new Masters of Science in Statistical Practice (MSSP) program. The appointment start date is September 1, 2016. Designed for individuals with backgrounds in fields like biology, economics, management, and psychology, the MSSP program provides training in the areas of data collection, representation, and exploration, statistical modeling and computing, and consulting, which are increasingly important in decision making for companies, agencies, and nonprofits. The ideal candidate would hold a Ph.D. degree in statistics or closely-related subject. Extensive experience in statistical practice and a strong commitment to teaching are essential. The ideal candidate would teach core courses in the MSSP program, work with students on the in-program consulting projects, help oversee some extra-mural student internships, and be an active participant in the MSSP corporate-industrial affiliates program. The rank of the Professor of the Practice position and the salary will be commensurate with experience. Renewal of the position after the initial two-year appointment is subject to satisfactory performance. Submit the American Mathematical Society cover sheet, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, and at least three letters of recommendation that address statistical practice and expository skills, to <http://www.mathjobs.org/jobs>. Alternatively, send all material to Professor of the Practice Search Committee, Department of Mathematics and Statistics, Boston University, 111 Cummington Mall, Boston, MA 02215. Applications will be reviewed on a rolling basis until the position is filled, with preference given to those received by April 1, 2016. We are an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. We are a VEVRAA Federal Contractor.
