

“Capital Account Liberalization in China: Learning Lessons”

Agenda

Thursday, February 13, 2014

8:30 am to 9:00 am	Continental Breakfast
9:00 am to 9:15 am	Welcome and Logistics Anthony Janetos, Director, Pardee Center for the Study of the Longer-Range Future, Boston University Kevin Gallagher, Global Economic Governance Initiative, Boston University Jose Antonio Ocampo, Initiative for Policy Dialogue, Columbia University
9:15 am to 9:30 am	Introductions
9:30 am to 10:00 am	Opening Remarks and Questions Yu Yongding (via teleconference), Institute for World Economics and Politics, Chinese Academy of Social Sciences
10:00 am to 10:15 am	Break
10:15 am to 12:00 pm	“Managing Capital Flows in China” Chair: Gregory Chin, York University, Canada Zhang Ming, Institute for World Economics and Politics, Chinese Academy of Social Sciences Vivek Arora, International Monetary Fund Jan Kregel, Levy Institute for Economics, Bard College Sunanda Sen, Nehru University, Delhi, India
12:15 pm to 1:45 pm	Lunch
2:00 pm to 4:00 pm	“Past Experience with Capital Account Liberalization (and currency internationalization)” Chair: Jan Kregel, Levy Institute for Economics, Bard College East Asia: Robert McCauley, Bank of International Settlements (via teleconference) Japan/US: Kenji Aramaki, University of Tokyo Latin America: Jose Antonio Ocampo and Bilge Erten, Columbia University Central and Eastern Europe: Daniela Gabor, University of West England, Bristol

4:00 pm to 4:15 pm

Break

4:15 pm to 4:45 pm

Roundtable: Regulating Capital Flows for Stability and Growth in China

Chair: Kevin Gallagher, GEGI, Boston University

Jose Antonio Ocampo, Initiative for Policy Dialogue, Columbia University

Gregory Chin, York University, Canada

Zhang Ming, Chinese Academy of Social Sciences Institute for World
Economics and Politics

Conference Ends