

Denton DCP-1 Critical Point Dryer

The unit is used to dehydrate biological samples prior to SEM analysis in order to maintain their original morphology . It's also used in preparation for various material fabrication.