1. List the learning outcomes for the program

Students graduating with a major in American Studies are able to:

- 1. Demonstrate advanced knowledge of the U.S. experience - from a historical and cultural perspective and with an awareness of the global context.
- 2. Utilize an interdisciplinary approach in advancing an original argument, interpretation, or critique, within the field of American Studies.
- 3. Demonstrate proficiency in researching a suitably broad range of sources - both primary and secondary - and analyze them appropriately within the relevant disciplinary discourse.
- 4. Demonstrate proficiency in both written and oral presentations that reflect the interdisciplinary nature of the field.
