

College of Communication

Department of Journalism

M.S. in Journalism

Program Contact and Title: Jonathan Klarfeld, professor and program director
College Contact and Title: James Shanahan, professor and associate dean

1. Student Learning Outcomes for the graduate program in Journalism.
 - a) The student will understand the realities of modern journalism.
 - b) The student will understand the need for clear-and-concise writing and accuracy, regardless of the delivery platform.
 - c) The student will gain the ability to create stories under time constraints and challenging circumstances.
 - d) The student will evaluate sources and resources from which news is generated and prepared for dissemination.
 - e) The student will practice identifying and dealing with those sources, assessing their accuracy.
 - f) The student will gain an understanding of the historical, legal and ethical issues affecting journalism.