Standards to Consider for your Nomination Letter

When considering a student for candidacy, we encourage nominators to reflect on the following:

- Has the student developed/founded a program, organization or tradition while at Boston University?
- How has the student's work as a leader enhanced the quality of life on campus?
- Has the student participated in service to the external community as a representative of Boston University?
- Has the student represented Boston University for national recognition (i.e, academic or athletic honors)?
- How does the student stand as a leader amongst other leaders?
- What examples of personal character can you provide in nomination?
- In what ways has the student brought honor or recognition to Boston University?
