

Theatrical Performance Activist

Peterson Toscano

Thursday Dec. 5 7:00 P.M.

Oxnam-Hartman Room: School of Theology

You are invited to:

Drawing on inspiration from interviews with transgender and genderqueer individuals, Peterson Toscano weaves their experiences into the stories of transgender and gender-variant people from the Hebrew and Christian scriptures. Hilarious and moving, Toscano's one-person play deepens well-known (and lesser-known) Bible stories as he presents an array of characters with an array of genders.

This event is part of a Supervised Ministry project for David Weekley, who wishes to thank the School of Theology and following co-sponsors:

The Office of the Dean: The School of Theology, The Office of Community Life, The Center for Practical Theology, Sacred Worth, The Religion and Conflict Transformation Program, The Anna Howard Shaw Center, The Center for Spiritual Life

"Peterson Toscano's work combines astute readings of the Bible with great story-telling and comedy. He offers interpretations of the texts and insights that even experienced biblical scholars haven't seen before. When portrayed by Toscano, Bible stories and characters come to life with wit, sympathy, and humor."

Dale Martin, Ph.D, Woolsey Professor of Religious Studies, Yale University

745 Commonwealth Ave.
Boston, MA.