Boston University International Programs
London

Boston University British Programmes
The Foreign Correspondent
COM JO 416 (Elective A)
Spring 2011

Instructor Information

- A. Name: David McNeil
- B. Day and Time: Mondays and Tuesdays (plus Friday 11 February), 2:45-6:45pm
- C. Location: Brompton room, 43 Harrington Gardens, SW7 4JU
- D. BU Telephone: 020 7244 6255
- E. Email: mcneildavid@hotmail.com
- F. Webpage: www.bu-london.co.uk/academic/jo416
- G. Office hours: By appointment

Your tutor, David McNeil, brings to this course vast experience as a Foreign Correspondent with the BBC for 21 years. For 19 of those years, he was based outside the UK and has reported for the BBC from 46 countries.

Course Overview

This course will introduce you to the world of the Foreign Correspondent. In the United States, ambitious reporters often seek an overseas posting because it could further their careers back home. In Britain, the job of Foreign Correspondent is seen as a full career, and end in itself, not just a means to promotion.

In JO 416, you will examine the motivation and priorities of the Foreign Correspondent, “someone who is paid to travel the world, live in interesting places and tell people about them”. As the world shrinks, so we need to know more about other cultures. We cannot always “go there” and, if we do, it is often only for a brief visit in which we can garner no more than an initial impression. A Foreign Correspondent lives and works in the country from which he/she is reporting for years at a time. He/she can provide insight, background and context, as well as report events as they happen. In this way, knowledge and understanding are spread.

So what is it like to be a Foreign Correspondent? What credentials – journalistic and linguistic – are required? How does a Foreign Correspondent find the news? How does he/she process it? What constitutes political, social and personal reporting?

Many Foreign Correspondents find themselves covering wars and if they do well the first time they report a war, they will be sent to cover other wars. A large part of this course is devoted to analysing the role of the War Correspondent. We examine photojournalism, television news and radio coverage of wars from the first media war (the Boer war) to the first television war (Vietnam) to the recent war in Iraq.

In JO 416 we will also examine the function of the Foreign Correspondent within the structure of an international newsgathering system. In this context, we will consider the role of television, radio and newspapers and the international news agencies. For example, why is radio still such an important source of news in the UK?

Reading List

Additional readings may be posted on the course webpage: http://www.bu-london.co.uk/academic/jo416 (you must be logged in to view materials).

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Scoop (set book)</th>
<th>Evelyn Waugh</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>The First Casualty</td>
<td>Philip Knightley</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>A Rumor of War</td>
<td>Philip Caputo</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>From Beirut to Jerusalem</td>
<td>Thomas Friedman</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Live From The Battlefield</td>
<td>Peter Arnett</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Anyone Here Been Raped and Speaks English</td>
<td>Edward Behr</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Attendance

The rules of Boston University British Programmes shall apply. You should confirm details with the administrative personnel, but the most important thing to remember is that there is no such thing as an unexcused absence.

Students must check their email and the weekly Student Newsletter for field trip updates and reminders, if any are to be included.

Grading

Your grade in this course will be based on two assignments and an examination. Your first assignment will require you to write a leader/editorial in the style of The Economist news magazine on a subject of topical interest to be chosen by your tutor, and this will be worth thirty per cent of your final grade. For the second assignment, you will need to produce an article written as though for publication by a newspaper or magazine in the United States. That too will be worth thirty per cent of your final grade. The final exam, worth forty per cent of your final grade, will be sat over a maximum period of two hours. In the exam, five essay questions will be posed and you will select two from five. Each of the two essays will be given equal weight in the marking process.

Please refer to the Academic Handbook for detailed grading criteria, attendance requirements and policies on plagiarism: http://www.bu-london.co.uk/files/images/ACADEMICHANDBOOKSP11.pdf
Course Chronology

Monday    Course Introduction
17 Jan    The Foreign Correspondent – motivation and priorities
        · Function as part of an international newsgathering system
        · Sources and subjects
        · Essentials of technique
    The War Correspondent – photojournalism

Tuesday   The International News Agencies: Guest Speaker – Peter Mosley
18 Jan    Reporters at War

Monday    The Foreign Correspondent:
24 Jan    - Interviewing and filing
        · Tricks of the trade
    The BBC in Vietnam

Tuesday   British Newspapers and Magazines
25 Jan    The first media war
    Set Assignment One

Monday    The War Correspondent – a strategy for survival
31 Jan    -relations with the military
        -censorship
        -ethics
    Campaigning Journalism
    Set Assignment Two

Tuesday   Journalism Online – The Digital Revolution
1 Feb     Radio Journalism

* Contingency Class Date: Friday 4 February. Students are obligated to keep this date free to attend class should any class dates need to be rescheduled.

Monday    Interactive workshop – press releases and the art of the interview
7 Jan     The Birth of the Newsreel

Tuesday   British Television News – Production Values
8 Feb     Making Programmes at the BBC

Friday    POTUS on the move – The Foreign Correspondent and the White House Press Corps
11 Feb    The Way Ahead
        Analysis of set book

Tuesday   Exam
15 Feb    Exam times and locations will be posted on the BU London website and in the Student Newsletter two weeks before exam dates.