Question at hand:

On March 29, 2016 at 7:39 PM, the Student Elections Commission (SEC) received the following complaint:

On March 24, the tabling space of the GSU can only be booked by a student group or university department. Clean Slate is neither and if a student group did it on their behalf (besides SEC) this violates university policy.

If a student group or department did, then it is illegal campaigning.

Findings:

3/31/16
In a vote of 10-0 with no abstentions the SEC has decided to dismiss this complaint on the grounds that SAO had granted Clean Slate an exception to the standard GSU table booking rules and therefore was not in violation of university policy nor elections code.
