Course Description:
This course will help you learn how to think like historians. To this end, we will concentrate less on a specific subject of study than on how historians approach their subjects. In particular, we will focus on how historians use evidence to construct historical arguments. What is evidence? What is the relationship between evidence and argument? How can the same evidence be used to construct seemingly oppositional narratives? Do some topics inherently pose more challenges from an evidentiary perspective? These, and related questions, will shape our inquiry. After examining a range of historical works that have used evidence in novel, controversial, and sometimes irresponsible ways, we will gain firsthand archival experience, working with sources culled from the Howard Gottlieb Archives at Boston University.

Course Texts (required):
- Alan Bennett, The History Boys
- Christopher Browning, Ordinary Men
- Niall Ferguson, Empire
- Daniel Goldhagen, Hitler's Willing Executioners
- Annette Gordon-Reed, The Hemingses of Monticello
- James Goodman, Stories of Scottsboro
- Lynn Hunt, The Family Romance and the French Revolution
- Laurel Thatcher Ulrich, A Midwife's Tale

Course Requirements:
- Attendance and Class Participation. Course attendance is required. (See below for specifics regarding attendance policy.) As this is a seminar, however, I expect you not just to show up for class, but also to be ready to participate. Your participation in class will be essential. In order to be an active participant in the seminar, you will need to prepare for class. Make sure to take notes while you complete the assigned reading, and ask yourself questions. Why do you think that a particular reading has been assigned? What are its main ideas and concepts? If you find a reading dull, why? What about it seems strange or difficult to understand? Asking yourself these kinds of questions will help you to participate more effectively in class discussion.

- Weekly Precis. On designated Fridays, you will submit a 1-2 page (double-spaced) précis that outlines the argument(s) of the week’s assigned reading, discusses how the author constructs his/her argument (i.e. what kinds of evidence the author uses to support his/her claims, how the argument is organized), and draws attention to potential strengths and weaknesses of the author’s approach or method. Your précis should offer both explication and analysis.

- Research Project. In addition to the weekly précis, you will also be assigned a final project. In this project, you will be asked to write an 8-10 pp. introduction to an archival collection at the Howard Gottlieb Archive. We will devote several weeks at the end of the semester exclusively to this project.

- Research Presentations. In the final weeks of the semester, you will be asked to present your research to the rest of the class. These presentations will enable you to share your knowledge with the class, and to practice public speaking.

Grading Breakdown:

- Class participation and attendance: 20%
- Weekly précis: 35%
- Final research project: 35%
- Research presentation: 10%

Grading Scale:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Grade</th>
<th>Percentage Range</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>A</td>
<td>93-100</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>A-</td>
<td>90-92</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>B+</td>
<td>87-89</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>B</td>
<td>83-86</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>C+</td>
<td>77-79</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>C</td>
<td>73-76</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>C-</td>
<td>70-72</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>B-</td>
<td>80-82</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Format for précis and research paper:

All papers must:

- Be typed/word-processed. Handwritten work is not acceptable;
- Be double-spaced in 12 pt. font (Times New Roman preferred but not required);
- Be spell-checked – spelling errors are not acceptable;
- Be grammar-checked to the best of your ability;
- Include your name, a (sexy) title, the course title, assignment title, page numbers, and the date.

Late Assignments:

Please contact me well in advance of an assignment’s due date if you think that you will have difficulty meeting a particular deadline. All papers submitted late without my permission will automatically be marked down one half grade per day.

Attendance Policy:

Class attendance is required – this is especially important as this is a seminar. Please notify me in advance (if possible) if you know that you will need to be absent from class. After one unexcused absence, I will begin deducting 1/3 of a letter grade off your final grade for every missed class.
Plagiarism Policy:
This course is designed to encourage critical thinking and writing. In order to become critical thinkers and writers, you must complete all stages of the work yourself: taking the words of others, or presenting the ideas of others as your own not only prohibits you from learning the skills of academic writing and research, it also is a violation of the University’s Academic Conduct Code. It is your responsibility to understand all of the provisions of the CAS Academic Conduct Code. The minimum penalty for such offenses is to fail the assignment; the more common penalty is to fail the course. If you ever have questions about how to cite a source (be it a text, website or person), please contact me. I’m more than happy to help answer your questions — that’s what I’m here for! We will be regularly reviewing the University’s plagiarism policy throughout the semester.

Disability:
If you are a student requiring accommodations for a disability, please let me know as soon as possible. The Office of Disability Services is available to assist you and may be contacted at 353-3658.

Course Schedule:

January 15: Introductory: The Problem of Evidence
Film: The History Boys

January 22: Evidence and Argument
Reading due: Alan Bennett, The History Boys (all)
*Precis due

January 29: The Uses of the Personal*
Reading due: Laurel Thatcher Ulrich, A Midwife’s Tale (Introduction, Chapters 1 and 3, Epilogue)
* Precis due

February 5: Evidence and Orality*
Reading due: Annette Gordon-Reed, The Hemingses of Monticello (pages TBA)
* Precis due

February 12: Accessing Experience
Reading due: James Goodman, Stories from Scottsboro (Parts 1 and 2 required)
*Precis due

February 19: Theory and Evidence*
Reading due: Lynn Hunt, The Family Romance and the French Revolution (all)
* Precis due

February 26: Evidence and the Holocaust*/ Document Analysis and Research Project Discussion
Reading due: Daniel Goldhagen, Hitler’s Willing Executioners (Introduction, Chapters 6-9, Epilogue and Appendix 1 ["a note on method"]) and Christopher Browning, Ordinary Men (Chapter 18 and Afterword [response to Goldhagen])
* Precis due
March 5: Selective Evidence and the Responsibilities of the Historian*/Gottlieb Archive Discussion
Reading due: Niall Ferguson, Empire (Introduction, Chapter 6, and Conclusion)
*Precis due

March 12: SPRING BREAK

March 19: Howard Gottlieb Archives Orientation (meet in Arthur Fiedler room, 2nd floor of Mugar, time tba)

March 26: No Class [students will meet with me independently outside of class to discuss their research projects]

April 2: Oral Presentations

April 9: Susan Pennybacker presentation on the Scottsboro Trial at 2pm, History Department, place TBA

April 16: Oral Presentations

April 23: Course Conclusion
Research Guides Due