Admissions Information

Master of Education (EdM), Master of Arts in Teaching (MAT), Master of Mathematics for Teaching (MMT), Doctor of Education (EdD), and Certificate of Advanced Graduate Study (CAGS) programs are open to qualified individuals who have completed the required prerequisite degree(s) or the equivalent at fully accredited colleges or universities in this country or abroad. Students applying for the EdM or MAT programs who have not completed a baccalaureate degree at the time of application must have completed a minimum of 105 credits or the equivalent before they will be considered. While the School of Education (SED) does not mandate previous academic or work experience in the area of human services, individual programs may require such prerequisites. All programs are described in the online bulletin at www.bu.edu/education.

An admissions committee of representative faculty identified with the program to which the candidate has applied evaluates the completed application and makes a decision regarding admission to the program. Emphasis is placed on the applicant’s demonstrated scholastic ability, congruence between the faculty’s areas of expertise and the candidate’s interest, and, where significant to success in the program, the candidate’s work experiences and/or specific educational preparation.

It is not necessary to make a formal application in order to take individual courses on a nondegree basis except when seeking admission to a nondegree Massachusetts licensure sequence. Nondegree students may register during regular registration periods for most graduate-level courses offered by the School of Education. For registration information, contact the School’s Office of Student Records at 617-353-4225.

Admissions Timetable

Most SED programs offer the option of rolling admissions; that is, one may apply at any time during the year to begin studies in the summer, fall, or spring semesters. Exceptions to this are outlined below.* Faculty committees review only complete applications, which include official test scores, letters of reference, official transcripts, writing sample(s), and application fee. The review process normally takes four to six weeks from the time an application becomes complete.

Exceptions *

- Financial Aid Applicants: Those who wish to be considered in the initial SED scholarship review must submit a completed admissions application on or before February 15. (See “Financial Information” on page 13 for details.)
- Education of the Deaf Program Applicants: Applicants are encouraged to apply by February 15; applicants are reviewed after this date on a space-available basis. Review for this program does not begin until February 15 and normally takes four to six weeks.
- Full-time applicants to the programs in Counseling, Education of the Deaf, Elementary Education, International Educational Development, Reading, and Master of Arts in Teaching: Applicants to these programs are encouraged to apply for the fall or summer semesters only, due to scheduling of courses.

Admission may be deferred, with permission, for one year from the date of acceptance. It is the candidate’s responsibility to request such a deferral and to notify the School of Education Graduate Admissions Office in writing when activation of admission is planned.

Financial Assistance Information

Boston University provides financial assistance to School of Education graduate students through scholarships, grants, Federal Work-Study, Perkins Loans, Federal Direct Loans, Supplemental Loans for Students, resident assistant positions, tuition payment plans, and special University fellowships. Financial assistance applications are reviewed after a candidate has been accepted for admission.

Any applicant who wishes to be considered for financial assistance must submit a complete admissions application on or before February 15. Late applicants will be considered on the basis of available funding. Refer to page 13 for more information about graduate financial aid.

Application Requirements

A complete application for admission will include the following:

- Completed application form
- Official transcript(s) from each college or university previously attended
- Two or more official letters of recommendation (Placement folders may substitute for letters of recommendation)
- Official results of appropriate admissions test(s)
- Appropriate writing sample(s)
- Nonrefundable application fee of $65; make check payable to Boston University.

Personal Interviews

Applicants who seek general information about graduate programs are invited to visit the information offices on the first floor of the School of Education, Two Sherborn Street. More specific information may be obtained from the office of the faculty member designated as the contact person for the program to which you are applying.

The School of Education does not require that graduate applicants have a personal interview. Individual program faculty may request an applicant meet with them prior to the admission decision. Notification of such an interview does not indicate acceptance.

Transfer of Credit

Subject to the approval of their academic advisor, accepted students may transfer up to two courses (8 semester hours) taken prior to acceptance to their degree or certificate program as part of the minimum requirements.

For further information, please refer to the online bulletin at www.bu.edu/education.

International Students

Applicants who are not citizens or permanent residents of the United States must submit a completed International Student Data Form and evidence of satisfactory proficiency in English, including the ability to read and write with facility. For test requirements, please refer to “Admission Tests” on page 4.

International students must submit original documents. Official translations of all transcripts and other credentials must be furnished when the original documents are written in a language other than English. In some instances, the School of Education may request that an applicant submitting foreign credentials have those credentials evaluated by a qualified agency.

It is recommended that international students submit a completed application for admission to the fall semester no later than May 1 and to the spring semester no later than October 1.

International students are advised to submit their applications as soon as possible, since processing financial documents and issuing immigration documents takes an additional 4–6 weeks.

International students are eligible to apply for School of Education assistantships and scholarships. Students who wish to receive consideration for ac
Applicants fill out both Schools’ application forms. Applicants are required from two persons with whom you have studied and/or under whose immediate supervision you have worked in a professional capacity, or others whom you believe to be in a position to offer a pertinent appraisal of your skills and ability. Fill out your name and the program to which you are applying, check whether or not you waive access to the letter of reference form, and sign it. Then, send evaluation forms to those individuals from whom you are requesting letters of reference. Ask the evaluator to complete the form, sign his or her name across the envelope seal, and return the envelope directly to you. Mail the references in sealed envelopes with your application. Please request that all your evaluators follow this procedure. Placement folders may be used as a substitute for the letters of recommendation. Please direct your school to forward your placement folder to the Graduate Admissions Office.

Dual Degree Procedure

The School of Education offers three dual degree programs with the School of Social Work at Boston University.

Please consult the online bulletin for information on the MSW/EdM dual degree program offered through the School’s Department of Administration, Training, and Policy and the School of Social Work and the MSW/EdM and MSW/EdD programs offered through the School’s Special Education program and the School of Social Work.

Students applying to the dual degree programs with the School of Social Work choose one of the following options:

- Option 1 Applicants fill out both Schools’ application forms. Applicants decide at which School they wish to begin their studies and must submit all supporting materials (application fee, essay, transcripts, letters of reference, and test scores) to that School, along with a letter requesting that all supporting materials be forwarded to the other School’s admissions office. The admissions reviews take place simultaneously, but decision letters are sent out separately.*

- Option 2 Students fill out only one School’s application form and submit all supporting material to that School. If accepted, students matriculate at that School only. After completing one semester of study, students may then apply to the second School. Students choosing this option must request (from their current School) that their undergraduate (and graduate, if applicable) transcript(s); GRE, MAT, and/or TOEFL score(s); and letters of recommendation be copied and sent to the admissions office of the other School. Students must also submit an Application for Admission, an official Boston University transcript, a personal statement, and an additional letter of recommendation from a current faculty member from the School in which they are enrolled. (For scheduling reasons, students choosing Option 2 are encouraged to begin studies at the School of Social Work, although it is possible to begin at the School of Education.)

*Acceptance at one School is not an indication of acceptance at the other.

Applications are eligible for financial assistance only at the School where they wish to begin their studies. Each year, students apply for financial assistance only at the School of primary residence. Primary residence is defined as the School in which the student is registered for the majority of his or her classes.

Applicants are also encouraged to submit official results of the Test of Written English. Applicants from countries which do not offer the MAT or GRE should contact the Graduate Admissions Office.

The Miller Analogies Test

The Miller Analogies Test (MAT) provides the Admissions Committee with a standard index of ability to perform graduate-level academic work. The test contains incomplete analogies designed to measure the ability to reason logically with both verbal and quantitative material. Many major universities administer the exam. For MAT information, contact the Psychological Corporation, 19500 Bulverde Road, San Antonio, TX 78259; 210-339-5000 or 1-800-228-0752. The School of Education MAT Code is 2352.

The Graduate Record Examination

The Graduate Record Examination (GRE) also demonstrates a candidate’s ability to do graduate-level academic work with sections designed to measure verbal, quantitative, and analytical ability. For GRE information, contact GRE-ETS, P.O. Box 6000, Princeton, NJ 08541-6000; 609-771-7670, or at www.gre.org. The institution code (to be used when requesting that scores be sent) for Boston University School of Education is 3066. The School of Education does not use a department code. For TOEFL score requirements, please visit our website at www.bu.edu/education.

Students with Disabilities

Boston University School of Education welcomes students with disabilities and desires to review all applicants appropriately. Applicants who believe that a disability significantly influenced their GPA, standardized test score, or other credentials are invited to include information regarding their disability in the personal statement or in an addendum to the application. Applicants who believe that their performance demonstrates excellence in light of a disability are also invited to discuss this in the personal statement. It is not mandatory that this information be provided; any information that is provided will be kept confidential.

The Boston University Office of Disability Services will assist graduate students who require academic or other accommodations. The office can be reached at 617-353-3658.

The Office of Graduate Financial Assistance provides information and assistance to students applying for a wide range of financial aid. Most School of Education scholarships are awarded on the basis of academic and professional achievement; federal aid is based on need. Admitted students, including international students, are eligible to apply for School of Education scholarships and assistantships. Citizens or permanent residents of the United States are eligible to apply for loans directly through the Office. Depending on additional eligibility criteria, students who are citizens/permanent residents may also be eligible to apply for special scholarships, residence hall positions, Federal Direct and Perkins Loans, and Federal Work-Study. Additional loans such as the TERI Loan, the MEFA Loan, the CitiAssist Loan and the Graduate Access Loan are available to creditworthy citizens and permanent residents. Some of these loans are also available to international students who are able to find a cosigner who meets the specific lender’s requirements of a cosigner.

Application Procedure/Requirements

Entering Students (Domestic and International):
To be considered for graduate financial assistance, the applicant must be admitted to a degree/certificate program within the School of Education and must have filed a financial assistance application by the appropriate deadline. Scholarships are awarded to full-time students only. Students seeking financial assistance must indicate that they are applying for financial assistance on their SED Application for Graduate Admission.

For U.S. Citizens and Permanent Residents: A complete financial assistance application includes:

- SED Graduate Application for Financial Assistance
- Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) indicating Boston University (institution code 002130) as recipient.

Note: Do not submit your W-2 or Federal Tax forms to the financial assistance office unless they are specifically requested. The FAFSA should be filed as soon as possible, but it does not need to be completed by the March 1st deadline.

For International Applicants:

A complete financial assistance application includes:

- SED Graduate Application for Financial Assistance

Continuing Students (2nd year of graduate study or beyond):
All continuing students who have earned at least 8 credits toward their degree program must submit:

- SED Graduate Application for Financial Assistance
- One current letter of recommendation from an appropriate faculty member
- A statement outlining their current activities and plans for achievement in the decade following graduation.

Note: Scholarships are awarded to full-time students only. Continuing students are eligible to apply for scholarship aid for full-time studies for just the fall semester if they plan to graduate in January. If your remaining requirements for graduation do not require you to be registered full time, you will not be considered for scholarship assistance.

U.S. Citizens and Permanent Residents must also submit:
- Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA)

The FAFSA should be filed as soon as possible, but does not need to be completed by the March 1st deadline.

Financial Assistance for International Students

The only funding available to international students from the School of Education is the SED General Scholarship and assistantships. It is uncommon, however, for a new international student to be granted an assistantship in their first semester of study. On campus, part-time employment opportunities may be available on the approval of the International Students and Scholars Office. Most SED General Scholarships provide approximately 2/3 tuition to selected recipients. Financial need has no bearing on these scholarships. It is the student’s responsibility to fund the remaining tuition and living expenses to attend the University. We do not provide tuition waivers to cover the remaining tuition charges. International students must provide financial documentation to the Graduate Admissions Office indicating that they have sufficient funds to attend the University in order to meet visa requirements for full admission to the School of Education.

Assistantships

Assistantships are not coordinated by the Graduate Financial Assistance Office and are not considered part of a financial assistance award. Upon admission to the School of Education, the Graduate Admissions Office will mail you an assistantship application. Assistantships usually pay $2,000 to $6,000 per semester.

Application Deadlines

Entering Students (Domestic and International):
Scholarship assistance is awarded in stages. Most awards are made throughout the winter and early spring. To be considered for the first round of scholarships, new students entering in the summer or fall must submit their complete admissions and financial assistance applications by February 15. Applications for scholarship assistance that arrive after February 15 will be reviewed later in the spring and in the summer, as funding permits. Those who need to file the FAFSA should file it as soon as possible, but it does not need to be completed by the February 15 deadline.

If you are applying for spring admission and wish to be considered for scholarships, you must submit your financial assistance application by November 1. Scholarship funding for the spring semester is limited.

Continuing Students:
Applications must be received in the SED Financial Assistance Office by March 15. Those who need to file the FAFSA should file it as soon as possible, but it does not need to be completed by the March 15 deadline.

Policies

Scholarships are not available for the summer term. Federal loans and Federal Work-Study are available to qualified U.S. citizens/permanent residents. Scholarships are awarded on a year-to-year basis. You must reapply for financial assistance if you wish to be considered for scholarship assistance beyond your first year of full-time study.
If you are granted financial assistance and choose to defer your admission, you must contact the Graduate Admissions Office to reactivate your admission and you must reapply for financial assistance to be considered for the semester in which you wish to begin your studies. The deadlines remain the same.

Scholarships are applied directly to a student’s account and require no service in return by the recipient.

Scholarships and loans require the recipient to make satisfactory academic progress. Students must be enrolled in appropriate graduate-level courses that count toward degree completion.

Scholarships

SED General Scholarships

SED General Scholarships are awarded annually to approximately 60 entering and 12 continuing students. Financial need is not a consideration in awarding the scholarships, which are based on academic and professional achievement. SED General Scholarships provide $20,000 (approximately two-thirds tuition).

School Licensure Scholarships

Students who seek school teaching or school counseling licensure for the first time through the Master of Arts in Teaching (MAT) or EdM in Elementary; Early Childhood Education; TESOL; Bilingual Education; Education of the Deaf; School Counseling; Physical Education; Health; or Special Education programs are eligible for a separate pool of scholarships based on merit and financial need. These scholarships are usually $15,000 (approximately one-half tuition). A FAFSA must be filed in order to qualify for the teaching licensure scholarships. Application to these scholarships is open to U.S. citizens and U.S. permanent residents accepted into these programs.

Response Scholarships

Based on academic and professional achievement as well as financial need, response scholarships are available to entering full-time students who demonstrate through past experience and future plans a commitment to work in one of the following areas: international education, urban settings, disadvantaged populations service, or in a position emphasizing the improvement of the quality of education. Ten scholarships of $15,000 (approximately one-half tuition) are awarded. A FAFSA must be filed in order to qualify for a Response Scholarship. Application to these scholarships is open to U.S. citizens and U.S. permanent residents only.

Ansin Intercultural Research Fund

Supported by a gift from Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ansin, the Ansin award provides annual awards, as close to full tuition as funds permit, to one or more SED undergraduate or graduate students who are committed to increasing cross-cultural understanding among cultural, ethnic, and/or religious groups in Pre-K–Grade 12 and adult education settings in the United States or internationally.

Undergraduate recipients shall be junior or senior education majors whose contributions to intercultural relations for Pre-K–Grade 12 or adult education students are reflected in a research paper, curriculum materials, community service, or an internship. Preference for graduate students shall be for part- or full-time master’s degree candidates working in early childhood, elementary, secondary, or adult education settings. Their contributions should be reflected in their current or recent teaching service or internships. Graduate recipients may also be doctoral students in either the dissertation or pre-dissertation phase. To complete an application, each applicant must submit a letter of recommendation from an appropriate faculty member, write a letter of application, and submit materials that support his or her qualification to receive the award. Applications are due in the SED Graduate Financial Aid Office by May 1.

The Kelly Elizabeth Stephens Memorial Scholarship

The Kelly Elizabeth Stephens Memorial Scholarship was established in 1995 by Dorothy and Robert Stephens, Kelly’s parents, to celebrate Kelly’s accomplishments and to encourage similar achievements in other School of Education students. Kelly was a teacher of English in Indonesia who was fatally injured in a volcanic eruption. Each year, part or all of the income from the permanently endowed fund is awarded to a deserving Indonesian master’s student on the basis not only of a commitment to teaching—especially in the field of English or international education development—but also of financial need. In addition to completing the SED Graduate Application for Financial Assistance, applicants must submit an essay in English explaining why they would like to study at Boston University School of Education, how the Stephens Scholarship would help them achieve their goals, and their plans for achievement in the decade following graduation.

Martin Luther King Jr. Fellowship

Boston University awards Martin Luther King Jr. fellowships in memory of this distinguished Boston University alumnus and in honor of his ideal of peace and freedom through nonviolence. Eligible African Americans entering a full-time graduate degree program are nominated by the School of Education—on the basis of outstanding academic and professional achievement—to receive consideration by the University’s Martin Luther King Jr. Fellowship Awards Committee. Recipients receive a scholarship that covers tuition and fees and a stipend for living expenses. The fellowship may be renewed for a period of up to two years. In order to be eligible for consideration, the student must complete an SED Graduate Application for Financial Assistance that indicates a desire to be considered for the fellowship, and must be admitted to a degree/certificate program in SED by February 15.

Whitney Young Fellowship Award

The Boston University Whitney Young Fellowship is awarded in recognition of the outstanding contributions made to the fields of social work, urban studies, and African American studies by Whitney M. Young Jr. The competition is open to entering and continuing African American students at Boston University. Applicants should demonstrate proficiency in a field related to race or urban problems and also demonstrate the qualities of creativity, humor, and commitment to community action that were characteristics of Whitney M. Young Jr. The fellowship provides tuition, fees, and a stipend for living expenses. Financial need and enrollment status are considered in determining the award level. Application forms are available in January and must be requested from the Boston University Graduate School, 705 Commonwealth Avenue, Room 112, Boston, MA 02215. The deadline for submission of the completed application and all attachments is February 15.

Student Employment

Graduate Assistantships

There are several types of assistantships available to School of Education (SED) graduate students. To be eligible for consideration, you must be admitted to or currently enrolled in a graduate program in the School of Education.

Graduate assistantship awards generally range from $2,000 to $6,000 per semester and are in exchange for 12–16 hours of work per week in a department or for a designated faculty member. These assistantships fulfill full-time residency requirements for students enrolled for a minimum of 6 credits per semester for two consecutive semesters while serving as a teaching assistant. However, they do not provide tuition remission.

Schoolwide assistantships involving seminar instruction and practicum supervision are available for the following School of Education courses: ED 100 Introduction to Education, ED 410 Social Context of Education, ED 412 Civic Context of Education, and ED 500 Foundations of Educational Practice. Priority may be given to experienced teachers and continuing graduate students.
Assistantship awards for ED 100 and ED 500 are $6,000 per semester plus 8 credits of tuition remission (SED evening courses) per semester. These assistantships fulfill full-time residency requirements for students enrolled for a minimum of 8 credits per semester for two consecutive semesters while serving as a teaching assistant. Assistantship awards for ED 410 and ED 412 are $4,000 per semester plus 4 credits of tuition remission (SED evening courses) per semester. These assistantships also fulfill full-time residency requirements for students enrolled for a minimum of 8 credits per semester.

Assistantship applications are mailed with admissions letters.

Federal Work-Study

Federal Work-Study is a program that promotes access to employment for students who demonstrate financial need. Available funds are provided by a federal allocation and a University matching contribution. Recipients are selected by the Office of Financial Assistance and must meet federal need and other criteria. The Work-Study Office provides information to eligible students about available jobs in University departments as well as in off-campus nonprofit agencies. Work-Study allocations may be used for community service programs. Undergraduate students who participate in the Work-Study program are paid weekly at established hourly rates. Graduate Work-Study students may be paid either weekly at established hourly rates or monthly at a fixed amount, depending on the nature of the job. Job assignments, which average 9–12 hours per week, are coordinated with the student’s class schedule.

Detailed information on Work-Study can be found on our website at www.bu.edu/seo. Specific inquiries about the program should be directed to the Work-Study Office, 881 Commonwealth Avenue, Boston, MA 02215. Call us at 617-353-3596 or send an e-mail to wsoffice@bu.edu.

Student Employment

The Student Employment Office will assist any currently enrolled degree student in finding part-time and summer work to help meet educational expenses. Hundreds of students find employment through our listing service. Staff members are available to assist students with their job search as well as to provide information on the interview process. The majority of job openings are off campus in the Greater Boston community. The Student Employment Office also directs the Quickie Job service, which places hundreds of students in temporary assignments. “Quickie Jobs” range from housework and party help to participating in research projects and assisting at conventions. The Student Employment Office is located on the second floor of 881 Commonwealth Avenue and is open Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.; 617-353-3594.

More information on the services offered by the Student Employment Office can be found on our website at www.bu.edu/seo. Jobs can be viewed on the Web at: www.bu.edu/studentlink. Students will need to set up a kerberos password through the Office of Information Technology before receiving access to job listings.

Residence Hall Positions

Graduate students who wish to work as resident assistants in dormitories should apply as soon as possible after January 1 to the Boston University Office of Residence Life, 985 Commonwealth Avenue, Boston, MA 02215. Compensation varies depending upon the type of position and may include any or all of the following: room, board, and living stipend. You can contact the office at 617-353-4380.

Student Loans

Eligibility for U.S. Government loan programs is limited to students who are citizens of the United States or who hold a permanent resident visa, who will be enrolled at least half time in a degree/certificate program, and who are not in default on previous education loans. The student must enroll in courses toward the degree/certificate requirements. The loan amount that a student can receive is usually limited by one or more factors, such as calculated financial need, the cost of education, annual or maximum loan limits, and the applicant’s credit rating. For this reason, it is important to know the specific eligibility requirements, loan terms, and application deadlines for each program under consideration.

Loans are a vital resource in meeting educational expenses. Potential borrowers should keep in mind that loans must be repaid and that repayment ability should be calculated in relation to total debt and future earnings. Failure to meet loan repayment obligations can jeopardize one’s credit rating and eliminate eligibility for federal student assistance funds. Students who have prior education loans with in-school deferment provisions must request an application for deferment from the school or lending institution that originally approved the loan, and must request that the form be completed by the University Registrar’s Office each year that they are enrolled at least half-time (6 credits).

For some loans, repayment begins six to nine months after the student ceases half-time enrollment (not upon graduation as is commonly assumed). For other loans, repayment begins within 30 to 60 days after the loan is disbursed.

Students who have completed residency requirements and who are engaged in writing a dissertation or are completing other academic requirements may be eligible to apply for certified full-time status in order to apply for a student loan, continue loan deferment privileges, or obtain appropriate visa coding for international student status. Students seeking certified full-time status must contact the SED Records Office, Room 127, in order to obtain an application that must be completed before the start of the spring and fall semesters.

Federal Direct Loan

The Federal Direct Loan is a long-term, low-interest education loan. Much like other federal need-based programs, Federal Direct Loan eligibility is determined through the FAFSA (Free Application for Federal Student Aid). The maximum annual amount that graduate students may borrow is $18,500, of which up to $8,500 may be subsidized. Students who are first-time borrowers at Boston University must complete an entrance interview before funds will be released. To apply for a Federal Direct Loan, a student must indicate an intention to apply for the loan on the SED Graduate Application for Financial Assistance and complete the FAFSA (Free Application for Federal Student Aid). After admission, the student will be asked to complete a loan request form to specify the amount of the loan to be processed.

Perkins Loan

This is a federally funded, long-term educational loan allocated to students who demonstrate the greatest financial need. There are no interest charges until nine months after you cease half-time enrollment (6 credits) and begin repayment. During repayment you will be charged 5 percent simple interest. To apply for a Perkins Loan, a student must indicate an intention to apply for the loan on the SED Graduate Application for Financial Assistance and complete the FAFSA (Free Application for Federal Student Aid).

Federal Loan Cancellation/Deferment Options for Teachers

If you are a teacher or become a teacher serving in a low-income or subject-matter shortage area, it might be possible for you to cancel or defer your student loans.

For information on Stafford and Perkins loan repayment and cancellation options, please visit the Federal Student Aid website, and locate your information under the repaying tab. http://studentaid.ed.gov/PORTALSWebApp/students/english/teachercancel.jsp?tab=repaying

Alternative Private Loans

Several banks and private lending agencies offer educational loans to creditworthy applicants. Total financial aid including federal and private loans cannot exceed a student’s calculated need. Based on your enrollment, length of study, etc., Boston University generates a budget for each student. You may apply for a private loan up to the amount of unmet need between this overall budget and the total of all other forms of financial assistance you are receiving. Please check with the SED Graduate Financial Assistance Office to determine how large a loan you may request.

SED graduate students have previously received private loans through:

- CitilAssist Loan
  www.studentloan.com/schools/bu
- Graduate Access Loan
  www.accessgroup.org
- MEGA Graduate Loan
  www.mefa.org
- SallieMae Signature Loan
  www.salliemae.com
- TERI PEP Loan
  www.teri.org

Please review each lender's loan guidelines to see if you meet their particular eligibility requirements.

Federal Financial Assistance Policy

The major federal funds available to graduate students are the Federal Work-Study, Perkins Loans, and Federal Direct Stafford/Ford Loans. Eligibility is limited to students enrolled at least half time in courses required to complete a degree/certificate program, who are American citizens or who hold a permanent resident visa, who are not in default on former education loans, and who do not owe a refund on a Pell Grant, Supplemental Grant, or a State Student Incentive Grant. Eligibility for Perkins Loans and Work-Study funds extends to students who demonstrate financial need who are enrolled at least half time. Any student who has been excused by court-declared bankruptcy from repaying Perkins, NDSL, or graduate/federally insured student loans is not eligible for campus-based federal funds. Federal law requires that applicants for financial aid derived from Title IV federal sources establish their eligibility by submitting certification indicating compliance with the registration requirement of the Selective Service law or establishing a legally valid reason why the requirement does not apply. When a student receives Work-Study, Perkins Loan, and/or Federal Direct Stafford/Ford Loan funding, the total of all aid received cannot exceed his or her financial need. Funds received from any Boston University source are regarded as aid. Students must also report any outstanding assistance. Need is equal to the costs of education minus family contribution plus financial assistance and is calculated by using the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA). Other education loans (TERI and Access Group Loans) can then be added as additional resources, in general, up to the student's cost of education. Some students applying for federal aid will be required to provide a signed copy of their U.S. Income Tax Return filed with the Internal Revenue Service in order to comply with federal requirements for validating income information.

School of Education Financial Assistance Policy

Because both federal and University financial assistance funds are limited, it is not possible to offer campus-based aid funds to all applicants. Campus-based funds are distributed according to the type(s) of aid the applicant specifies on the School of Education Graduate Application for Financial Assistance. Whenever possible, University and federal funds are combined to meet the applicant's financial need. Preference for scholarship funds is given to entering students who intend to enroll full time both semesters of the academic year and who demonstrate the greatest academic and professional potential. Continuing students are eligible to apply for scholarship aid for full-time studies for just the fall semester if they plan to graduate in January. Only very limited scholarship funding is available to continuing graduate students. Scholarship funds are disbursed as credit toward tuition only. Perkins Loan and Work-Study funding are allocated according to the applicant's financial need and available funding. Academic and professional potential is evidenced by academic transcripts, letters of recommendation, a letter of application or statement of Qualifications and Objectives, and other materials submitted for review; financial need is determined by the FAFSA (Free Application for Federal Student Aid). Input from academic departments is considered in the evaluation process.

Financial aid applications are reviewed as candidates are accepted for admission; therefore, the complete Application for Graduate Admission, along with supporting credentials, should be submitted at least four weeks in advance of financial aid application deadlines. Unless otherwise indicated, all application materials for SED and federal funds should be sent to the SED Office of Graduate Financial Assistance, Two Sherborn Street, Room 115, Boston, MA 02215. It is the student's responsibility to make certain that all application materials are received in the office by 5 p.m. on the appropriate application date. Almost all funds are awarded for use during the full academic year. Financial assistance is not automatically renewed; students must reapply each year for which they are eligible. Applicants are advised to complete all application materials for campus-based aid programs in advance of the appropriate application deadline, and to pursue all other financial assistance programs for which they qualify, including sources external to the University. Because of eligibility requirements for federal funds, international students in the School of Education are eligible to apply for SED scholarships and assistantships only. Students must be enrolled in good standing by maintaining a 3.0 grade point average in order to be an eligible recipient of federal and school-aid funds. Financial assistance programs are contingent upon continued budget authorization. University regulations define full-time study as 12 or more credit hours taken in one semester. Part-time study is registration for 11 credits or less per semester. Federal assistance requires registration for a minimum of 6 credits per semester.

NOTE: students who are required by law to register with selective service must do so in order to qualify for institutional funds.
