BOSTON UNIVERSITY
DEPARTMENT OF MATHEMATICS AND STATISTICS
FULL TIME STATISTICS LECTURER POSITION

The Department of Mathematics and Statistics at Boston University invites applications for a Full Time Lecturer position in the new Masters of Science in Statistical Practice (MSSP) program, beginning July 1, 2015. This will be an initial one year appointment, renewable subject to satisfactory performance. The MSSP program provides training in the areas of data, measurement, and statistical analysis and consulting, which are increasingly important in decision making for companies, agencies, and nonprofits. It is designed for individuals in the fields of biology, economics, and management. The ideal candidate would assist with the development of certain components of the program this summer and then teach three courses per semester beginning in September 2015. These courses will include some undergraduate and graduate statistics. Extensive experience in statistics and a strong commitment to teaching are essential. Salary is commensurate with experience. Submit the American Mathematical Society cover sheet, curriculum vitae, teaching statement and at least three letters of recommendation that address teaching, to http://www.mathjobs.org/jobs. Alternatively, mail all materials to FT Lecturer Search Committee, Department of Mathematics and Statistics, Boston University, 111 Cummington Mall, Boston, MA 02215. Applications will be reviewed on a rolling basis with preference given to those received by April 1, 2015. We are an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. We are a VEVRAA Federal Contractor. Women and minorities are especially encouraged to apply.
