The Boston University School of Social Work invites applications for two full-time non tenure-track faculty positions at the assistant or associate professor level. Candidates must have an MSW, clinical experience with adults, families and/or children, and experience teaching Masters level social work students. Strong applicants will have taught clinical courses at the MSW level, advised students on academic and field issues, participated in course development, and received excellent teaching evaluations. Practice connections to Boston/New England urban areas are also desired. These positions require that faculty teach both classroom and on-line courses. A doctoral degree is not required but is positively viewed.

The BU School of Social Work fosters a supportive collegial environment. Distinguished by its urban mission and focus on urban clinical and macro practice, the School has a strong commitment to educating MSW and doctoral social workers who will become leaders in a multicultural environment. Special areas of interest within the School include aging, substance abuse, trauma and families, and health and mental health.

The application deadline is March 1, 2011 or until the positions are filled. Employment begins on September 1, 2011. Visit our website at www.bu.edu/ssw for more information about the School. The BU School of Social Work is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer. Members of historically underrepresented groups are strongly encouraged to apply. Please submit a letter of application outlining qualifications, a curriculum vitae, and teaching evaluations to:
