

Banishing Workplace Burnout in Our Hyper-connected Culture

Overworked, yet perceived as lazy? Broke, yet perceived as entitled? Each generation is unique, and millennials (and baby boomers, Gen Xers, etc.) are no different.

There are a lot of myths and assumptions circulating around millennials...both about their generation, and about why they often struggle in the modern workplace. This interactive and insightful session, led by Amma Marfo, will explore the challenges and mis-perceptions surrounding this generation of workers, and offer suggestions and opportunities for rehabilitating ourselves...and maybe our images in the process.

Remember to bring your business cards to network before and after the discussion.
