

Niamh Green

ngreen5@bu.edu

Education

University of Oregon / Bachelor of Arts

September 2020- June, 2024

EUGENE, OREGON

Classics Major with a dual concentration in Greek and Latin

Comparative Literature Major on the Language and Literature track

Senior Honors thesis discusses unpaid and emotional labor in Ovid's Heroides 1 and 7

Languages

Latin from 2013- present

Attic Greek from 2020- present

German from 2022- present

Research Interests

The impacts of intersectional feminist theory on understandings of women, gender, and sexuality in antiquity

Integration of material culture into curricula for literature students

Experience and Extra Classroom Activities

University of Oregon / Latin Tutor

September 2021 - Present

EUGENE, OREGON

Work with first year Latin students reviewing morphology and syntax

Offer study strategies and tips for students new to Latin

Help students understand the process of translation and preparing for live translation in class

Eta Sigma Phi, Iota Upsilon Chapter / President

May 2022 - Present

EUGENE, OREGON

Facilitates and leads meetings and initiation

Creates connections between upper and lower classmen and graduate students.

Awards and Conferences

May 2022- presented Tug of (Punic) War: The Good, The Bad, and The Roman Senate at the North Western Undergraduate Conference on the Ancient World

March 2023- presented Speaking Through Silence: Pompeian Graffiti and the Literary Tradition at the Classical Association of the Pacific North West's annual conference

May 2023- presented The Perfect Victim: Medusa's Story Continued at the North Western Undergraduate Conference on the Ancient World

June 2023- received Pascal Prize from the Classics Department at the University of Oregon for recognition as the top Latin student

June 2024- received the Lowenstam Essay Prize from the Classics Department at the University of Oregon for the best Classics paper of the year