

COM Study Abroad Fact Sheet

COM Internship Study Abroad Programs

To be eligible to apply to participate in a Boston University Study Abroad program that offers a COM internship, students must meet all the requirements described on this fact sheet.

All decisions regarding which students are accepted into a Boston University Study Abroad program are made by the Boston University Study Abroad office. Students must meet the requirements below:

- Good academic standing is expected to apply and attend. Students that land on academic probation (fall out of good academic standing) after receiving COM approval to participate may have that approval rescinded.
- Most students are required to have an overall Boston University GPA of 2.0 or better and a COM GPA (GPA in COM courses only) of a 2.0 or better. All GPA requirements should be met at the time a student is seeking approval and while the student is studying abroad.
- Transfer students to Boston University are not allowed to apply for a study abroad program until they have a Boston University GPA on record and meet all other requirements described on this sheet.
- COM undergraduate students must meet with a COM Undergraduate Affairs Academic Advisor or attend a Study Abroad Express meeting (only for L.A., Dublin, London, Sydney, Washington D.C.) to have their Advisor Form/Academic Agreement portion of the study abroad application completed.

Students must be enrolled in, or have completed, the pre-requisite courses required for their COM major(s) and the internship area they are seeking. Both courses must be successfully completed before attending a program. There are NO EXCEPTIONS to the course pre-requisites.
