Summer Study in Greece

An academic program sponsored by the Boston University Philhellenes, Department of Classical Studies, and Core Curriculum that fosters an appreciation of Greek language and culture.

Program:
Students reside in the beautiful residences of the American College of Greece (acg.edu) and take two introductory courses in Greek culture, civilization, or language.

Excursions:
Students visit major historical and cultural sites including Corinth, Mycenae, Nafplio, Epidaurus, and Delphi, as well as islands like Ydra, Aigina, Tinos, and Poros.

Program Dates:

Costs:
Approximately $8,000, including airfare, accommodations, excursions, and tuition. Scholarships of at least $2,300 are available for qualified Boston University students.

Applications:

Eligibility:
All courses are introductory and no background in classics or Greek language is necessary. Students of all disciplines from Boston University and elsewhere are encouraged to apply.

Contact:
Professor L.J. Samons (ljs@bu.edu) or the Department of Classical Studies, 617-353-2427. Visit bu.edu/classics