

Boston University Earth & Environment

Resources for Financial Aid

Financial support for Master's students in Earth & Environment is allotted based on need and merit, and on a first-come basis, beginning with the opening of applications on September 1. Partial tuition scholarships may be offered, and/or some students are invited to serve as teaching assistants for undergraduate courses, at a stipend of $6,000 per semester. (Teaching assistants lead labs and discussion sections.) Occasionally, faculty hire Master's students to serve as research assistants, paid on an hourly basis; those opportunities always depend on matching student skills with faculty need and are usually determined once a student has been coursework.

Full information about financial aid can be found at <https://www.bu.edu/cas/current-students/ma-and-ms-students/financial-aid/>.

Competitive fellowship programs at BU include:

- <http://www.bu.edu/bufellow/>
- <http://www.bu.edu/pardee/community/graduate-summer-fellows/>
- <http://www.bu.edu/pardeeschool/files/2020/03/Graduate-external-scholarships.pdf>
- <https://www.bu.edu/bufellow/resources/student-resources/>

International students may also research available funding from home governments and agencies.

Please send any questions to Matt DiCintio, Earth & Environment Graduate Program Coordinator, at dicintio@bu.edu.