Dear Stefania,

My name is Tom Ruchti and I recently joined the OFR as Research Principal after nine years on the faculty at Carnegie Mellon. The Office of Financial Research (OFR), U.S. Department of Treasury, is looking for top-quality candidates and will be interviewing for several Financial Economist positions in December 2022. As you may know, the OFR is focused on performing research and collecting financial data to promote financial stability. Hires are expected to contribute to the mission of the OFR, primarily by engaging in and applying knowledge from their independent research directed at top-tier academic journals.

Information about how to apply can be found in our job posting:

<https://www.ssrn.com/index.cfm/en/janda/job/?id=12015>

Please forward this information to current or former PhD students who may be on the job market this year, are looking for research positions, and are open to living in the D.C. area. Thank you so much and feel free to pass on my contact information to anyone who has questions about working in the OFR.

Best,

Tom Ruchti
