Just one of the many ways BU helps the district

The ripple effect in full effect

A partnership between Boston University and Public Schools of Brookline is giving local teachers and staff the opportunity to develop additional skills, knowledge, and experience to benefit their classrooms. BU's Wheelock College of Education & Human Development offers eligible Public Schools of Brookline employees a scholarship covering 33% of tuition for master's, Certificate of Advanced Graduate Study, and graduate certificate programs. Plus, no application fees. The more our teachers and students thrive, the more our communities thrive.
