Just one of the many ways BU helps Vermont

Buying local—and renewable—furniture

Since 1989, Boston University has partnered with New England Woodcraft, a certified veteran-owned small business, to provide American-made furniture for the dorms on campus. The company, based in Brandon, which has been run by the Thurston family since 1960, specializes in furniture made from well-managed, sustainable forests and supplies our student residences with more than 100,000 desks, dressers, chairs, and bedframes. It's one way BU backs its community—both on campus and in Vermont.
