

The One and the Many (O&M) at Boston University

Dates: July 9 – 21, 2023

A residential humanities summer program for
Boston-area high school
students on BU's Charles River Campus

Program Theme: Justice

In morning seminars with BU faculty, students will explore the theme of JUSTICE through:

- ❑ examining archival documents
- ❑ watching and critiquing documentary films
- ❑ reading classic works

Afternoons will feature related labs with experiential activities led by the associate directors.

Program Goals

Introduce students to campus life at BU in a supportive environment

Inspire students through college-level study of classics, history & film

Nurture friendships among students

Support students' academic growth

What Is Distinctive About O&M?

Two Faculty Members who teach inspiring seminars

What Is Distinctive About O&M?

Two associate directors who lead afternoon labs and evening activities on campus, in the dorm, and in the city of Boston

And What Is Distinctive About O&M?

Two undergraduate mentors who live in the dorm, support you, join you in the seminars, and introduce you to college life

Nevaeh Calliste is an undergraduate student at Boston University. She is studying Media Science with a minor in international relations. Navaeh loves to bake and go out to eat in her spare time. She also founded a nonprofit that helps survivors of trauma find ways to help their mental health. (She is also a Summer Search and O&M Alum!)

Lenny Adonteng is originally from the Worcester area. He is currently a third year student at Boston University studying Sociology and the Humanities. His academic interests tend to revolve around the intersections of race/ethnicity, and the law. Outside of school he really enjoys the outdoors- hiking, and biking, as well as reading.

Where Do Students Live?

In an air-conditioned Bay State Road brownstone, together with the mentors and the associate directors.

You will share a room with one or two other students, as assigned by Maya and Kimber.

Brownstones have common rooms and kitchenettes, so you can do group activities and enjoy snacks together.

Students Have Full Access to BU Campus
