Majority of law students ...

... now graduate with an educational mortgage
Essentially, you’re financing an important investment in yourself.

You can be successful …

- In repaying this “mortgage”
- Without having to sacrifice your career aspirations or the achievement of your other financial and personal goals

But, you must make smart, strategic, and well-informed decisions about how you finance your education!
Decisions to be made ...

- Should you borrow private student loans rather than federal student loans if you could get a lower interest rate?
- Should you borrow the minimum amount you need to achieve your goals?
- Should you pay the interest on your loans as it accrues while in school?

You need to understand how federal student loans differ from other forms of debt (including private student loans) to make informed decisions about these questions.
Normally with debt ...

... you can feel “boxed into a corner” from a financial perspective!
Why are you in that “corner”?

- Because payments are “locked-in” and based on the amount you owe—your DEBT—not on your ability to repay that debt

As such, DEBT puts you at RISK and LIMITS your options, financially

- Puts you at RISK of having to miss the payment due to loss of income or an unexpected expense.

- LIMITS your ability to pursue the job you want, invest for retirement, buy a house, etc.
Not all debt is the same ...

What’s the difference?

“DEBT”
Credit cards

“Debt”
Home mortgage, private student loans

“debt”
Federal student loans
... you don’t need to feel “boxed” into that corner!
In essence, federal student loans offer …

Choice

Flexibility

Safety
How are federal student loans different?

The IMPORTANT difference:

- Payments can be based on your income rather than on the amount of your debt

- Payments can be equal to 10% of your household’s discretionary income – therefore, you could have 90% of your household’s income for everything else!

As such, federal student loans need not “box you into a corner financially” – they provide financial safeguards that greatly reduce/minimize the RISK and FINANCIAL BARRIERS you normally associate with having debt!
Federal student loans also provide ...

- Payment relief options if you need to postpone repayment when experiencing financial hardship
  - Deferment
  - Forbearance

- Forgiveness on portion of unpaid debt
  - Income-Driven Repayment (IDR) plans – Balance forgiven after 20-25 years of qualifying IDR payments (taxed benefit)
  - Public Service Loan Forgiveness (PSLF) – Balance on Direct Loans forgiven after 120 months of qualifying public service (tax-free benefit)—but beware of the risks
What is the “cost” of debt?

Making an informed decision requires understanding the costs of that decision.
Debt always has two (2) costs ...

- Direct Cost
  - Interest
  - Fees

- Opportunity Cost
  - Value of what you are forgoing each month to repay the debt
  - In essence, the interest you are losing
Another factor to consider ...
Simple vs. Compounding Interest

- Simple interest
  - Increases in a LINEAR manner over time because it is not being “capitalized” (not being added to the principal balance)
  - Interest generally accrues on your federal student loans as “SIMPLE” interest during repayment

- Compound interest
  - Increases EXPONENTIALLY over time because it is being capitalized at regular time intervals (added to the principal balance)
  - Interest is compounding (perhaps as often as daily) on your INVESTMENTS and so your money is GROWING exponentially!

As such, you could end up with more money (not less) by investing your extra funds rather than paying off your federal loans faster!
So what should you do ... ...

... when “mapping your course” financially in law school?
Should you borrow private loans?

You have the right to do so, BUT:

- You will lose the choice, flexibility and safety provided by federal student loans including the income-driven repayment options.

- You may lower the direct cost, but you will increase the opportunity cost (likely will have to repay the private loan faster, and therefore, have a higher monthly payment to qualify for the lower interest rate).

As such, you may be giving up more than you are gaining if you borrow a private loan – so exercise caution – be fully informed – investigate ALL the differences – don’t focus solely on the interest rate!
Should you borrow the minimum amount possible?

YES, but:

- Borrow only what you NEED to achieve your goal.
- Make sure you differentiate between NEEDS and WANTS.
- Understand what financial aid is intended to cover—will it be enough to achieve your ultimate goal?
- Consider all costs you’ll incur to achieve your goal …
  - How will you cover your living expenses during non-enrollment periods (e.g., summer break; after graduation)?
  - How will you pay for Bar Exam-related expenses?
  - How will you pay to relocate to your new job after law school?
Bar Exam results typically are known about 39 months after you begin law school (November 2023)

Financial aid is only available for 27 of those 39 months (9 months of each academic year)

How will you pay for the other 12 months of expenses (living expenses, bar prep costs, relocation, etc.)?

Try not to use credit cards or private bar study loans

Plan your 39-month budget strategically Be Strategic!

Plan you borrowing wisely;

don’t leave it to chance!
How did you decide on how much to borrow?

Did you?:

- Borrow amount indicated by the Financial Aid Office?
- Estimate your budget and borrow only what you needed to fill the “gap”?
So, what is YOUR budget?

Your budget is:

- A financial “road map” – helps you get to where you want to go financially
- A spending plan – lays out what resources are available and how you spend those resources
- A guide to borrowing – will help you decide how much you need to borrow

Is your budget equal to:

- “Cost of Attendance” (COA)?

NO, you must create your own SPENDING PLAN
Cost of Attendance (COA)
“Student Expense Budget”

- Calculated by the University
- Includes both fixed educational costs and living expenses for the academic year at BU Law School
- Total financial aid cannot exceed COA
- Not prescriptive, and NOT your budget

If balance is NEGATIVE, you’ll likely need to borrow student loans to fund that amount. AND, don’t overlook the reality that you have a “39-month” budget in order to achieve your goal!

</table>

- ED will be changing how your Direct Loans are serviced in the coming months; servicing will be managed directly through StudentAid.gov—you will be notified when the change occurs!

- Check your “dashboard” at: StudentAid.gov to verify contact information for the loan servicer for each of your federal loans.
Updated web portal for managing your federal student loans
The U.S. Department of Education (ED) has updated the Federal Student Aid web portal: StudentAid.gov

- Following actions now can be completed at: StudentAid.gov
  - Apply for Federal Direct Loans including the Federal Direct Consolidation Loan
  - Complete entrance/exit loan counseling
  - Review your federal student aid history including a summary and details about each of the federal student loans you have borrowed through programs regulated by ED (including all DIRECT loans)
  - Apply for/re-certify/change Income-Driven Repayment (IDR) plans
  - Learn about Public Service Loan Forgiveness (PSLF) using the “PSLF Help Tool”
- Servicing of all Federal Direct Loans will be transferred to StudentAid.gov in the coming months—you will be notified when the transfer has been completed
Should you pay the accruing interest while in school?

Interest on unsubsidized federal loans accrues as SIMPLE interest while in school!

- It is NOT compounding while you are in school!
- Interest that accrues while you are in school “capitalizes” (i.e., is added to the principal) typically when loan(s) enter/re-enter repayment.

Therefore, it is better to reduce amount you are borrowing rather than paying the accruing interest if you have funds to pay that interest while in school—you will get more “bang for your buck!”
Did you know?
You can return unused loan funds!

If you return loan funds within 120 days of disbursement:

- Principal loan balance is reduced
- Interest and fees charged on loan amount returned are reversed

COVID-19

Student Loan Provisions

For all federal student loans owned by the U.S. Department of Education (includes all DIRECT LOANS):

- Interest is waived until December 31, 2020
  - Direct Unsubsidized Loan for 2020-2021 = 4.30% (fixed)
  - Direct Grad PLUS Loan for 2020-2021 = 5.30% (fixed)
- Loans in active repayment will be placed on an ADMINISTRATIVE FORBEARANCE thereby suspending repayment until December 31, 2020
  - These months will count as qualifying months toward all forgiveness benefits including PSLF
  - Borrowers must contact their loan servicer if they want to “opt out” of this administrative forbearance
