One of the PRC’s most anticipated programs, the Annual Portfolio Review Day is back! In order to accommodate the increased demand for this program, the PRC has doubled the number of reviewers available to see your work. This is an opportunity to have your work reviewed by some of the most influential photography professionals from the region. Learn how to improve and refine your portfolio, and take your photography to the next level. The PRC has also increased the scope of its informal portfolio sharing held during the event, which provides a great opportunity to network with peers, both old and new.

This workshop will help participants develop an eye and approach to photographing in any place in a manner that illustrates both the specificity of a particular location as well as its universal qualities. Particular attention will be paid to capturing subtle nuances in an environment that help establish mood, character, time, and tension. Participants will also reflect on composing images that offer compelling points-of-entry into the environment photographed. This workshop will include an overview of approaches, both traditional and alternative, to landscape photography. On-location shooting will take place at a meadow in Carlisle, MA where instructor Barbara Bosworth has been photographing for the past 4 years.

A photographer has a responsibility to create his or her work with respect, concern, and understanding that pictures are the middle voice in creating dialog. Developing an artistic sense of light, composition, and how the moment gives a picture an infinite life heightens the ability to make dynamic images that spark this dialog. In this workshop, noted photojournalist Dominic Chavez will help participants build other skills necessary to create compelling documentary images. These include the photographer/subject relationship, timing, reacting to situations, building stories, and more.
