

This overview provides a guide to be used together with the MA in Preservation Studies course requirements (<http://www.bu.edu/amnesp/academics/graduate/preservation-studies-ma/requirements/>) in choosing your final two courses for the Fall 2023 semester. The list can also function as a guide for Spring 2023 and please visit the same websites when new Spring courses are announced in Fall.

For the full information about individual courses, such as instructor and meeting patterns, see the provided website links to individual departmental websites; visit the Boston University Bulletin; and University Class Schedule (bu.edu/mybu). Of use is also the course inventory on <http://www.bu.edu/amnesp/courses/course-inventory/graduate-course-inventory/preservation-studies-course-inventory/>. Do note that some of the American Studies courses are cross-listed with other departments.

As a reminder, graduate students are only allowed to take classes at the 500+ level (Sometimes, students can participate in a 300 or 400 level course as a graduate level Directed Study with the instructor.)
