1. Evaluation of Teaching:

Drawing on your own first-hand observations as well as other data, evaluate the candidate's classroom teaching. Provide informative student evaluations of the candidate's courses (only one set of copies is needed). Copies of letters from students concerning the candidate's teaching should be attached to this report. Discuss the candidate's direction and supervision of theses and dissertations. Comment on the quality of student work which the candidate supervised. Evaluate the candidate's contributions in undergraduate advising, sponsorship of student organizations, or other work with students outside of the classroom. Comment on new methods and courses developed by the candidate. Limit your comments to the candidate's activities since the candidate's last promotion.

2. Evaluation of Research and Publication:

Evaluate the candidate's publications and other evidence of the candidate's research, such as patent applications. Comment on the importance of the candidate's research within the candidate's field and within the broader context of scholarly work in the candidate's discipline. Limit your comments to the candidate's activities since the candidate's last promotion.

3. Other Professional Activities:

Comment on the nature, extent and quality of the candidate's participation in departmental, college, or University affairs since the candidate's last promotion. Evaluate the candidate's professional activities outside of the University since the candidate's last promotion.

4. Future Role:

Discuss the candidate's present and future role in the department or School/College. Discuss teaching, research, and any other matters you think relevant. Be as specific as possible.
