Lecturer in Health Science
Department of Health Sciences

Boston University College of Health & Rehabilitation Sciences: Sargent College invites applications for a full-time, non-tenure track faculty position at the Lecturer level in the Health Science Program within the Department of Health Sciences. This is a 9-month appointment with the possibility of summer instruction. The position will start in Fall 2018.

Lecturers at Boston University are expected to teach, advise students, and participate in service. The individual hired into this position will teach 3-4 courses per semester and advise undergraduate students in the Health Science major. The position does not require research activity. The successful candidate will have a demonstrated interest in teaching and mentoring students at the undergraduate level, and an interest in further developing the undergraduate program in Health Science.

Qualifications include:

- Earned MPH or other relevant master’s degree required; PhD, ScD, or DrPH preferred
- Expertise in one or more of the following areas: global health, environmental health, community health, health administration, epidemiology, health services delivery, or clinical practice (such as NP, PA, or CNM)
- Teaching experience at the college/university level, preferably with undergraduate students

The Department of Health Sciences is part of a vibrant Boston University community that includes 17 schools and colleges across the Charles River and Medical campuses. We invite you to join our interdisciplinary faculty and become involved with our network of opportunities within Boston University and the greater Boston community.

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled. For full consideration, please apply by February 26, 2018. Please submit cover letter, curriculum vitae, and contact information for three references to:
