SPH DONOR RECOGNITION 2015

DEAR FRIENDS,

ON JANUARY 1, 2016, I will have served my first full year as dean of Boston University School of Public Health. Since last winter, which had the greatest recorded snowfall in the history of Boston, I have enjoyed meeting a large number of alumni, friends, and foundation and corporate leaders, both here in Boston and across the country. At each meeting or event, I have been consistently impressed by the outstanding work being done by our alumni in an almost infinite number of capacities, all aiming to promote public health.

Earlier this year, we were thrilled to receive the news that SPH now ranks among the top 10 public health schools in the country according to U.S. News & World Report. This climb in the rankings reflects loud and clear recognition of the incredible work the BUSPH leadership team has done during Dean Meenan's 22-year tenure. It also acknowledges our commitment to be both a global leader in public health scholarship and to train the next generation of the public health workforce with a "real world" approach to empowering communities, both locally and globally.

I am truly humbled to have joined this institution at such an ascendant time. This new recognition encourages and challenges us to do better, to ever more clearly engage our responsibility as a leading school of public health, and to further innovate in our scholarship, education, and translation as we engage the critical public health issues of today and tomorrow.

We shall do just that, together.

Toward the end of further and better engaging alumni, friends, and external partners with the School's work, in May we launched the SPH This Month E-newsletter to keep you current on what's happening. We also engaged many alumni with our Strategic Thinking process and solicited their participation in two alumni-specific focus groups. In the fall of 2015, we launched an annual alumni survey to solicit alumni views and better identify ways we can engage alumni with SPH life. Our alumni play an integral role in our educational community by mentoring students, serving as practicum site hosts, and hiring students across many fields. With the introduction of the new MPH curriculum in the fall of 2016, we will also be introducing new alumni opportunities for lifelong learning and refocusing and expanding our alumni council.

Lastly, in January of 2016 we will launch a yearlong celebration of SPH's 40th anniversary. We look forward to your participation in the full set of activities offered locally and globally, both in person and online.

I have had the pleasure of meeting many of you at alumni receptions held across the country, and I look forward to meeting many more of you on campus or at a future regional event in the coming months. Thank you for all you do to support our vibrant SPH community and to advance the public's health.

Warm regards,

Sandro Galea, MD, DrPH
Dean and Professor,
Boston University School of Public Health

LAWRENCE A. CROSS, SPH'93, AND HIS WIFE, MARIAN

PLANNED GIVING

changed the trajectory of my career, brought a focused philosophy to my efforts in health care, and trained me to be fully prepared for the increasingly regulated and accountable environment I was working in at hospitals and health centers in New England. My law courses—taught by fantastic professors like George Annas, Leonard Glantz, and Wendy Mariner—were wonderfully interesting, and invaluable in my compliance and governance work with hospital boards, CEOs, and senior staff.

The epidemiology and biostatistics training I received from Tim Heeren and Adrienne Cupples was immensely useful, equipping me to help hospital systems and health centers learn to measure, count, and assess their quality improvement efforts with state and federal government requirements while also enhancing my credibility with the many physicians with whom I worked. I still remember Tim giving me large data sets to “clean” and evaluate, a process that taught me important lessons about scientific rigor and fact-based evaluation. And

I finished Dr. Cupples' data analysis course wishing that I had taken three additional semesters of calculus! But I sure did learn when to hire a real statistician. The expertise, humor, and intelligence of my BUSPH professors have remained in my memory banks for many years now, and I remain extremely grateful to the School for my excellent training. I served as CEO of a federally qualified health center for the last 10 years of my career, and kept my law textbooks and biostatistics coursework in my office for reference, often sharing material with my chief medical officer and senior management team. Reflecting on my career since my time at BU, I became ever more certain that I wanted to give back to the School in a meaningful way; hence my decision to include it in my estate planning. I have encouraged many young medical students and residents to consider an MPH degree to augment their medical degree, and that, too, is a way of giving back, but I feel compelled to offer financial support to a school that has done so much for me. —Lawrence A. Cross, SPH'93

SPH Investment in the Future of Public Health Fund

A simple and effective way to support SPH is by making a gift to the Investment in the Future of Public Health Fund, which provides flexible support directed to the School's most important needs. Students and faculty who benefit from fund gifts advance the health of populations today and tomorrow, throughout the United States and around the world. The dean identifies areas of greatest need and SPH Investment in the Future of Public Health Fund gifts go directly into programs for immediate impact with no administrative or overhead costs.

THE SPH INVESTMENT IN THE FUTURE OF PUBLIC HEALTH FUND SUPPORTS:

STUDENT SCHOLARSHIP

SPH attracts talented applicants with strong academic credentials and passion for public health service. Scholarship and financial aid decrease tuition for many deserving SPH students and enable them to afford an outstanding SPH education. In addition, several schools often try to recruit competitive students; SPH Investment in the Future of Public Health Fund scholarship support can be a crucial factor for these students in choosing to attend SPH.

FACULTY RESEARCH

The Investment in the Future of Public Health Fund provides support for faculty pilot studies that catalyze pioneering progress in new areas of public health research. This support initiates competitive grant applications by supporting data collection, analysis, and reporting.

INNOVATIVE PROGRAMS TO ADVANCE THE SCHOOL'S MISSION

SPH aims to improve the health of populations, particularly the disadvantaged, underserved, and vulnerable, through excellence and innovation in education, research, and service. The Investment in the Future of Public Health Fund provides seed money to launch cutting-edge programs that allow us to innovate in teaching and in our efforts to create useful knowledge that can inform and influence the public health conversation.

MATCHING GIFT CHALLENGE

INAUGURATED IN 2013 in honor of the founding chair of the SPH epidemiology & biostatistics department, the Theodore Colton Fellowship Fund in Epidemiology was established by Dr. Colton's family, friends, and colleagues to support doctoral students in the Department of Epidemiology.

Colton, who launched the first doctoral degree program at SPH, has announced a second matching gift challenge: he will generously match additional contributions to the fund, dollar for dollar, up to a total of $20,000. Dr. Colton aims to repeat last year's hugely successful matching gift challenge to further inspire giving to the fellowship fund.

We have already raised over 75 percent of our fundraising goal and expect the fund to be fully endowed by the end of the year. Help us get there by making your gift today!

➤ Make your gift online at bu.edu/sph/alumni/give/colton-challenge/ or contact Arielle Fischer, Donor Relations Coordinator, at asf22890@bu.edu or 617-638-4658 for more information.

Out in the Field

CHENZHE CAO '17 traveled with SPH to Kimana, Kenya, where he worked in collaboration with the local Ministry of Health to evaluate the area's health system. An award from the John P. Howe Scholarship Fund, which supports deserving SPH students with an interest in global health, is allowing him to immerse himself in the field and take advantage of the innovative classes and experiential learning opportunities at SPH.

Cao says the scholarship has helped him gain the experience and develop the skills he needs to make a difference: "Having been able to work in the field in Kenya, I learned a great deal about working with other stakeholders and in low-resource settings. I hope to further pursue a career in the global health realm, putting to use the invaluable knowledge, skills, and experiences I've gained through BUSPH."

"HAVING BEEN ABLE TO WORK IN THE FIELD IN KENYA, I LEARNED A GREAT DEAL ABOUT WORKING WITH OTHER STAKEHOLDERS AND IN LOW-RESOURCE SETTINGS."

Boston University Loyalty Society

BU's new Loyalty Society was created to honor our most loyal alumni, parents, faculty, staff, and friends, generous individuals who understand that consecutive annual investments to the School of Public Health—no matter the size—transform lives. Gifts to SPH support student scholarship, faculty research, and innovative programs. Donors qualify for membership upon their second consecutive year of giving or immediately after committing to a recurring gift or multi-year pledge.

➤ Join the BU Loyalty Society today with a gift to SPH! Visit bu.edu/loyaltysociety to make your gift now and learn more about membership benefits.

WHY I GIVE

BUSPH IS A SPECIAL PLACE. It's made special by the tremendous investments of faculty, staff, and students to foster an environment of collaborative and holistic scholarship and action. This dynamic educational setting, and the students and faculty I came to know during my time at BUSPH, continue to inspire and challenge me. We support each other in the work we do in every corner of the globe as part of a professional community and public health family. Alumni events and resources help keep us connected and forge new connections to expand this community.

In my work advising various constituencies in the US health care industry, I continue to draw on the education, energy, and perspectives I gained while at BUSPH. With health care undergoing rapid transformation—we are seeing increased collaboration and coordination among health care providers, as well as an increased recognition of the myriad other factors that impact a person's health—my work is linked to public health in ways that I didn't anticipate when I graduated a dozen years ago.

I give to BUSPH in appreciation of the outstanding education I received. I want to do my part to help ensure that future students will be equally enriched and provided with the tools to effect change. I support the BUSPH community to increase its reach and further the aims we are all so passionate about.

—Emily E. Bajcsi, SPH'03
Partner, Epstein Becker & Green, P. C.

Student Alumni Mentoring Program (StAMP)

BOSTON UNIVERSITY School of Public Health will launch the Student Alumni Mentoring Program (StAMP) in Fall 2016.

StAMP will connect MPH students with SPH alumni to create successful mentoring relationships. StAMP will provide students with professional guidance from alumni in the field. Alumni will benefit from StAMP as a way to stay connected with the School.

➤ Visit bu.edu/sph/stamp for more information and to register to participate. Please contact Colbey Ricklefs at 617-414-1416 or ricklefs@bu.edu with any questions.

We look forward to hearing from you!

From Medicine to Public Health

DR. SALMA ABDALLA '16 attended medical school in her home country of Sudan before traveling to Boston to pursue an MPH at Boston University School of Public Health, where her focus shifted from clinical medicine to advocacy and policy making.

Abdalla is the 2015 recipient of the Jenny Huddart Scholarship, which she says has lightened her financial burden and allowed her to focus more on the most important aspect of school: learning. Supported by Joyce Lyons, president of Initiatives Inc., the scholarship is named in honor of the late Jenny Huddart, an SPH adjunct professor and member of the Initiatives Inc. team for more than 20 years.

"My time at BUSPH so far has opened my eyes to the complexity of health systems," says Abdalla. "I believe that my SPH education has provided me with the basics to work on health policy-related issues in my country and Africa. This wouldn't have been possible without the generous support of BUSPH and the Jenny Huddart Scholarship."

Abdalla's goals include starting her own organization focused on the sexual and reproductive rights of women in Sudan. She also hopes to one day be able to help students achieve their goals as the Jenny Huddart Scholarship supported her education.

➤ Visit bu.edu/sph/give to support the Jenny Huddart Scholarship Fund and help a student acquire the skills to become a public health leader.

"I BELIEVE THAT MY SPH EDUCATION HAS PROVIDED ME WITH THE BASICS TO WORK ON HEALTH POLICY-RELATED ISSUES IN MY COUNTRY AND AFRICA."

Top of Her Class

JENNIFER HAWKINS '16 traveled from California across the country to pursue her MPH at Boston University School of Public Health. SPH's Outstanding Scholars Fund, which supports a student among the top 10 percent of the incoming graduate class, has made it much more realistic and far less daunting for her to pursue her passions.

"I came to BUSPH excited to pursue a concentration in Health Law, Bioethics, and Human Rights," says Hawkins. "The department and faculty have been simply phenomenal. I have since added Social & Behavioral Sciences and am equally impressed. I hope to combine the skills and knowledge I've gained in both of these areas to help improve chronic disease management, including access to treatments and medications, and tools to make daily living easier for people in that situation."

➤ Visit bu.edu/sph/give to support the Outstanding Scholars Fund.

HONORING A LEADER

DEAN ROBERT F. MEENAN stepped down in December of 2014 after leading Boston University School of Public Health for 22 years. Many alumni, friends, and colleagues joined together to establish a fund in his honor that will support junior faculty in their careers.

➤ If you wish to make a gift in honor of Dr. Meenan, please contact Arielle Fischer, Donor Relations Coordinator, at asf22890@bu.edu or 617-638-4658. Or you can make your gift online at bu.edu/sph/alumni/give/meenan-professorship.

A BITTERSWEET DEPARTURE

LEONARD GLANTZ, professor of health law, bioethics, and human rights, has retired after serving Boston University School of Public Health for more than 35 years. Professor Glantz, who also served as associate dean for academic affairs, effectively shaped the growth of our School's academic programs into what they are today—outstanding opportunities for a world-class education in public health. We will miss having Professor Glantz as part of our School community and are deeply grateful to him for his years of service.

If you wish to make a gift in honor of Leonard, please direct it to the Leonard H. Glantz Award Fund for Academic Excellence.

The Leonard H. Glantz Award for Academic Excellence is presented annually to recognize a student whose academic achievement typifies high performance, creative and critical thinking, the ability to integrate different areas of public health, intellectual curiosity and motivation, and clear potential for future intellectual and creative contributions to public health.

Norman A. Scotch

NORMAN A. SCOTCH, the founding dean of the BU School of Public Health, passed away unexpectedly on November 25, 2014.

Scotch's strong belief in the importance of public health education helped shape the School's emphasis on teaching. He was driven by the belief that people working in public health should have opportunities for additional training so that they are more effective and can do the most good. With that in mind, he helped create a practice-based curriculum, navigated a core group of academics and administrators through the accreditation process, and pushed to establish the School as a separate institution in 1979.

Scotch was born in Dorchester, Massachusetts. He enlisted in the Army in 1946 and enrolled in Boston University on the GI Bill after his service. Scotch earned a BA in psychology and a master's in sociology from BU, then completed his PhD studies in anthropology from the Northwestern University African Studies program. After teaching anthropology and medical epidemiology at Harvard University, Washington State University, and Johns Hopkins, Scotch was recruited to BU to start the Sociomedical Sciences program at the School of Medicine. Several years into this role, he was asked to create a public health program within the medical school to serve the needs of people working in the field. The School of Public Health started as an educational program rather than a research institution, with an emphasis on a practice-based curriculum that would be immediately applicable in the real world.

SCOTCH'S STRONG BELIEF IN THE IMPORTANCE OF PUBLIC HEALTH EDUCATION HELPED SHAPE THE SCHOOL'S EMPHASIS ON TEACHING.

To reflect Scotch's emphasis on teaching, the Norman A. Scotch Award for Excellence in Teaching is presented annually to an individual who has made outstanding and sustained contributions to the education program of Boston University School of Public Health.

If you wish to make a gift in memory of Norman A. Scotch, please direct it to the Norman A. Scotch Excellence in Teaching Award Fund.

DEAR FRIENDS,

THANK YOU for supporting Boston University and the School of Public Health. It’s been a year of tremendous accomplishment and change for the School. Last fall, we celebrated the achievement of Dean Meenan’s 22 years of leadership and established a fund in his honor. If you would like to contribute, more information is available on page 9. On January 1, 2015, we welcomed the new vision and energy of Dean Sandro Galea, and in February we learned the great news that SPH moved up to #10 in the U.S. News & World Report rankings.

Accordingly, progress on the campaign continues to be strong. In August of 2015, we surpassed our School’s campaign goal of $40 million. This tremendous achievement has lead us to aim even higher, and Dean Galea has set a new goal of $60 million to be reached by 2019 in accordance with the expansion of the University-wide campaign. Annual giving from our Dean’s Advisory Board members, alumni, friends, faculty, staff, and graduating students increased 14 percent over last year. With the arrival of Dean Galea, the SPH Annual Fund has been renamed the “SPH Investment in the Future of Public Health Fund,” as these funds are directed to support student scholarships and financial aid, faculty research, and the translation of public health knowledge into practice.

Looking ahead, in January of 2016 we will begin a yearlong celebration of SPH’s 40th anniversary that will include an anniversary launch event in Boston on February 4 and receptions across the country in New York, Washington, DC, Miami, and San Francisco. The School will also host four major symposia on current public health challenges. Stay tuned for more information coming soon on ways to participate in Boston, online, or with other alumni in your community toward our goal of 40 SPH alumni celebrations wherever you are in the world.

I am very grateful to all of those individuals, foundations, and corporations who have committed philanthropic support to SPH. Your contributions do so much to help our students and faculty generate and translate knowledge to create the conditions that keep people healthy.

Sincerely,

Jeannine M. Rivet
