Teaching Public Health Writing and Communication

Celebrate and advance SPH scholarship, research, and practice towards the promotion of health and health equity across local and global communities.

Challenging Public Health

Public health has been going through its most prominent time in generations. How have we been doing? How can we do better? This series invites speakers from outside of public health to reflect on the public health response to the COVID-19 pandemic.

Strategic Research Directions

The 5 Strategic Directions of the School represent areas of critical public health need where our School is making important contributions, and stands to make more contributions in the coming decades. Our goal is to catalyze growth and promote research and scholarship in these areas across public health. This spring, we will explore:

mental and behavioral health (Feb 14)
climate, the planet, and health (Mar 18)
infectious disease (Apr 8). Our fall programming which will focus on health inequities and cities and health.
