

FLM: Comparative Analysis

In-Class Activity

Online Implementation

Goal: To practice writing and evaluating comparative analysis claims.

Task: You will work in a break-out room with a few other students. In your group, practice writing claims for comparative analysis based on possible conversations your selected authors could have. You can write your claims directly into your group's Zoom chat. Before the break-out rooms are closed, make sure to add your group's claims to the Google doc shared by your instructor.

Once break-out rooms are closed, the instructor will share their screen with everyone, so that the whole class can look at the Google doc and review as well as evaluate each group's claims for effectiveness and significance.
